NEWPORT, R. I.

THE NEWPORT MERCURY was established in June, 1758, and is now in its one hundred and twenty-sixth year. It is the oldest newspaper in the Union, and, with less than half a dozen exceptions, the oldest printed in the English language. It is a large quarto weekly of fifty-six columns filled with interesting readings—editorial, State, local and general news, well-selected miscellany and a valuable farmers' and household department.—Reaching so many households in this and other States, the limited space given to advertising is very valuable to business men.

TERMS: $2 00 a year in advance; single copies in wrappers, 5 cents.

☞ Specimen copies sent free, and special terms given advertisers by addressing the publisher.

ROGERS HIGH SCHOOL.

The Graduating Exercises next Thursday.

The graduating exercises of Rogers High School will occur at the school building, Thursday, beginning at 9 o'clock A.M., as follows:

9:05—Devotional exercises.

9:15—Recitations in German, senior class; Latin, first middle class; geometry, second middle class; algebra, junior I.

10—Recitations in Greek, senior and first middle classes; Latin, second middle; algebra, junior II.; French, junior I.

11—Exercises in chapel as follows:

Declamation, The Prisoner for Debt, by Benjamin Weaver.

Reading, "Christus", by Alice C. Banning.

Essay, The Puritan Period, by Ella L. Smith.

Declamation, The History of our Country, by Harry A. Titus.

Greek Dialogue from Lucian; Diogenes, Francis Burdick; Alexander, Wm. F. Tilton.

[Diogenes and Alexander the Great meet in the lower world. Diogenes questions Alexander as to the story of his divine origin, the disposal of his empire, and his burial place. He causes Alexander great sorrow by enumerating the blessings he has left behind in the upper world, and urges him to put an end to these painful recollections by drinking of the water of Lethe.]

Essay, with salutatory rank, The Ministry of Natural Beauty, by Caroline V. Landers.

Declamation, Speech of Orator Gilmax, by Francis Burdick.

Reading, The High Tide on the Coast of Lincolnshire, by Ida E. Redford.

Reading, Rook of Ages, by Susan B. Franklin.

Essay, with valedictory rank, Greek Influence on Literature, by William F. Tilton.

The medals will then be awarded, and the diplomas and certificates given. The exercises will be interspersed with singing by the school.

Essays have been prepared by members of the graduating class as follows: A Well Developed Man, Francis Burdick; Hope and Memory, Ella Pratt Crandall; The Character of Burns, Eliza Paddack Kreis; The Ministry of Natural Beauty, Caroline Vose Landers; Chivalry, Mary Maude Marsh; Woman in Shakespeare, Anna Theresa Redford; The Puritan Period, Ella L. Smith; Greek Influence on Literature, William Frederic Tilton; The Siege of Leyden, Benjamin Weaver.

Grammar School Graduation.

The graduating exercises of the First Grammar school of the public schools will take place on Tuesday next in the hall of the Coddington school building. The exercises will consist of exercises in history, arithmetic and geography by members of the graduating class, with singing by the class assisted by members of the Second Grammar grade. The Coddington Reading club will give an exercise on John G. Whittier; patriotic readings, by members of the class, and the valedictory will be delivered by Miss Annie E. Caswell. Mr. Gilpin, chairman of the Coddington school, will present the King medals, for amiability, to Miss Alice C. O'Niell and Miss Sarah C. Bacheller. These medals are only presented to natives of Newport. The medals, for scholarship, will be presented by Col. Stedman. The highest prize has been won by Annie E. Caswell of John; the Read medal by Frank Hammett Holt of John M., and the Pell medal by William Burdick of Edwin S., and the diplomas will be awarded by Mr. L. D. Davis, chairman of the School Board. All the other schools in the Coddington building will be in session during the hour, and parents and friends are cordially invited to be present and listen to the exercises. The school year closes Thursday, July 3.

The Re-union in New York.

Interest is increasing in the re-union among the sons and daughters in New York. At the largest assemblage yet held at the treasurer's office in the Washington building, it was resolved that the chairman, W. G. Peckham, take steps to secure the Fort Adams or some other band, and that the New York delegation have an informal reception at its headquarters to old acquaintances in Newport at some unoccupied hour. A committee of fifteen on the reception has that matter in charge.

The New Yorkers will wear a white badge over the regular badge, and have indications of a large turn-out. Philander Shaw, the chairman of the finance committee, reported a sufficiently full treasury, contributions having been received from George S. Coe, Dumont Clarke, the officers of the delegation, and others. The delegation chose Philander Shaw and W. G. Peckham to speak in its behalf at the re-union collation, and suggested that F. Lawton, Jr., respond for Brooklyn. Newporters in New York are requested to register at their headquarters in the State House before 10 A M. on the 4th.

Four-in-hands are quite numerous already in Newport.

RE-UNION.

Arrangements for a Grand Celebration Completed.

At a meeting of the general committee on the re-union of the sons and daughters of Newport Thursday evening, the various sub-committees reported, showing the arrangements for the grand celebration on the Fourth to be nearly or quite completed. About 3,000 invitations to be present have been sent to absent Newporters, and a collation for 2,500 persons, to be served under one large tent on the Izard lot, has been provided for. A large number of distinguished gentlemen, natives of Newport and others, have accepted invitations to speak on that occasion, and it would seem that all that is now needed to insure the most successful celebration ever given in Newport is pleasant weather.

The leading delegations of visitors will be from New York, Boston, Providence and New Bedford and they will be taken in charge by the reception committee, immediately upon arrival, and escorted to the several places provided for their headquarters. Books will be here for registry and the guests will be provided with badges and programmes.

The procession which will comprise several military and civic organizations with six or seven bands of music, will be formed on the Parade at 11 o'clock. The reception at the tent will take place at 1 o'clock and will probably continue till 4 or 5 o'clock. No person will be admitted to the tent without a badge.

The United Train of Artillery of Providence were compelled to decline the invitation to participate in the celebration owing to other engagements on that day.

At the meeting Thursday evening, it was voted to convey the lady guests to the tent in drags where they will meet their escorts who will be in the procession. The subject of athletic and other games was brought up and Mr. John Gilpin, Alderman Cottrell and Geo. Burdick were chosen a committee to procure, if possible, the Polo lot for the exhibition of such sports. The Finance committee reported the total amount of funds already raised as $1661.50.

The fireworks in the evening will be an interesting feature of the day's celebration. These will be sent off from floats in the harbor, off Commercial Wharf. The floats will be placed as near the center of the inner harbor as possible, so that all can have a good view from the wharves. The exhibition will begin at 9 o'clock, and will consist of rockets, colored fire, candles, bombs, shells, etc. At 9.30 o'clock Capt. Selfridge will send off a number of submarine torpedoes. These will be exploded at intervals of five minutes each, from just south of the wharf on Goat Island. Colored fire will be burned behind the explosion which will give a beautiful effect to the spray. It is intended to have three bands of music on the water while the fireworks exhibition is going on.

Among the speakers in the tent on July 4th will be President Robinson, of Brown University; Chief Justice Durfee, George Peabody Wetmore, Dr. H. R. Storer, Thos. Coggeshall, Esq., Hon. William P. Sheffield, and L. D. Davis, Esq. It is expected that there will be some seventeen speakers in all. The address of welcome will be made by His Honor Mayor Franklin, and Colonel W. A. Stedman will act as toastmaster.

A complete and official programme of the re-union appears in another column of this issue.

Re-opening of the Newport Line.

Commencing on or about June 26th, the Old Colony Railroad and Steamboat Co. will place their special service of steamers in commission between New York and Newport, for the accommodation of travel to and from those cities and the sea shore and summer resorts local to the Old Colony R. R. The special New Bedford train service and the usual summer schedule between Newport and local points in connection with the New York line, via Newport, will be placed in operation at the same time. The early morning boat from New Bedford for Marthas' Vineyard and Nantucket, and afternoon boat returning, connecting with the Newport and New Bedford special, will commence running June 30th. The steamers Newport and Old Colony, and later on the Bristol, will cover the route between New York and Newport.

Death of Miss Marin.

Miss Henrietta Thorndike, eldest daughter of Capt. Mathias C. Marin, U. S. N., of this city, died at her father's residence on Kay street Monday night from heart disease. She had been suffering from nervous affliction since the recent death of her cousin and foster sister, Mrs. Grant, but nothing to confine her to the house, and her death was sudden and unexpected. Miss Marin was a lady of culture and of high attainments which endeared her to a large circle of friends in the society where she was ever welcomed, while her noble generosity and unselfish interest in the less fortunate classes made her the beloved of hundreds whose wants she had alleviated.

Her funeral will be solemnized from Trinity church this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Board of Aldermen.

At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen Wednesday evening the usual applications for liquor licenses for the year were received and ordered advertised. Mr. Kaull offered his usual motion that no licenses be granted, but it was not seconded. He then moved that the license fee be placed at $300 and $500. This was seconded by Mr. Hopkins, but the other members voting against it, it was lost and the fee will be as heretofore.

First Arrival for the Re-union of Sons and Daughters of Newport.

Miss Mary B. Corzens, a native of Newport, arrived here last week Friday evening from San Angelos, Texas, which place she left the previous Sunday evening, making the first 100 miles by stage-coach. Miss Corzens left here with her father's family in 1848 in the barque Charles Devens for New Orleans, and this is her first visit to her native place since that time. She is a guest of Miss E. R. Green on Mann avenue.

Michael Callahan, a recent deserter from the schoolship New Hampshire, was arrested in Fall River this week and returned to the ship.

OLYMPIAN CLUB SKATING RINK.

Season of 1884.

The Olympian Club skating rink on Bellevue avenue will open for the season of 1884 next Tuesday evening, under the personal management of Mr. O. M. Raymond, of Boston. The interior of the building has been greatly improved, both in convenience and attractiveness, since last season. The entire floor surface has been smoothed down until it is in even better condition than when new at the beginning of last summer. Several new windows have been inserted near the skate counter, and the walls and galleries are being profusely ornamented with Japanese decoration, flags, etc. None but the Raymond skate will be used, and they are to be entirely new.

The day and evening sessions will be the same as last season, and numerous special attractions, like fancy and trick skating and bicycle riding, polo, etc., will be introduced at evening sessions during the season. Prof. H. M. Fox, of the Olympian Club's winter rink, the American Institute, New York, will act as assistant manager, and Prof. F. H. Bigelow, of New York, has been engaged as instructor. Among the attractions arranged for the opening night will be fancy skating by Miss Blanche Hayden and Master Harry Stratton, of Boston.

Popular alike with residents and visitors, this resort has become a prominent feature in Newport's summer pastimes, and its opening next week will be a pleasing event to all lovers of roller skating.

Edwin Booth's Summer Home.

Among the numerous summer homes of wealth and culture which abound in Newport, not the least attractive is that of Edwin Booth, the star of the American stage. Delightfully situated on Indian avenue, it commands a magnificent view up and down the East channel and far out to sea, while, at the same time, it is but a delightful half-hour's drive from the city, either over Honeyman Hill or via the new road under the Hanging Rock and across the beaches.

It contains about eleven acres of land, which is laid out in a beautiful lawn, sloping gracefully from the house to the water's edge, where a substantial sea wall nearly 500 feet in length protects it from the constant swash of Old Ocean. Through this lawn, which is dotted with artistically arranged flower-beds, numerous gravel walks are made leading to places for special sight-seeing or of retreat, and the whole is enclosed by a hedge.

The cottage stands near the upper part of the grounds, a short distance in from the street. It is of Queen Anne architecture, one-and-a-half stories high on the avenue side and two-and-a-half on the water front, with numerous bays, cupolas, etc., and verandahs on three sides. West Island, the fishing grounds of the nabobs, is in full view from the cottage, and the landing of the island boats is but a short distance up the channel.

Mr. Booth and his daughter occupied the place last season, but Mr. E. Truman Peckham, of this city, the builder, has made many alterations and improvements there during the winter.

A handsome boat-house has been erected at the foot of the lawn, about 100 yards in a northeasterly direction from the house. This building is 21x38 feet and of Queen Anne architecture. On the west side is a hand-some octagon tower, while on the other three sides are broad, open verandahs. It is one-and-a-half stories in height, and contains three dressing-rooms and a large sitting-room or hall, besides an eight feet basement. The basement, which is a receptacle for boats, is made in the solid rock with an opening in the water. The building is intended for a boat-house, bath-house and summer-house, all in one, and is a very elaborate affair. The water in front of the building forms a sheltered cove which serves as a convenient harbor. From the boat-house on the left a granite sea-wall forms the base of a high, well-graded bank for a distance of 500 feet, while on the right and some distance away, a flight of some thirty stone steps leads down to a shore that is as wild as almost any part of our coast.

Prominent among the improvements which have been made at the cottage is the dining-hall. This pretty room looks out upon the water through a large bay, and is finished in old oak panel work, with exposed timbers at the ceiling and a four feet wainscoting. The house contains fourteen large, airy rooms, besides halls, bath-rooms, closets, etc., most of which are provided with large, open fire-places.

The house servants and coachman have already arrived, and are busily engaged in getting the premises in readiness for Mr. Booth and his daughter, who are now at Sag Harbor, but who are expected here on the 7th of July.

Opening of the Ocean House.

The Ocean House, having received in addition to its annual overhauling many improvements and alterations to the interior, opened for the season Wednesday under the most favorable auspices. The house will be conducted as heretofore, under the personal management of the proprietors, Messrs. John G. Weaver & Sons, with Mr. Wm. M. Bates as chief clerk. Mr. John Henry Tilley will be in his old position of book keeper, while Messrs. Samuel Edwards, late of the Hoffman House in New York, John H. Keeshan, formerly of the Perry House in this city, and Thomas Weaver will act respectively as room-clerk, day clerk and night clerk.

The Tribune contains the following from our well-known Ex-Governor: Ex Governor Van Zandt, who, as chairman of the Rhode Island delegation in 1876, opposed Mr. Blaine's nomination, says that he would have voted for Mr. Arthur had he been a delegate to the convention of this year. But as the choice of the convention and the people, Mr. Blaine will now receive his cordial support, and will, in his opinion, be elected. "I think," says the Governor, "that most of those who were dissatisfied with Mr. Blaine's nomination will come to his support before the election. I do not believe that a dissatisfied minority ought to or can control a satisfied majority."

Every store on Bellevue avenue has been taken for the present season.

Real Estate Sales and Rentals.

Gen. J. H. Van Alen, of New York, has rented his Clay street villa to Dr. F. LeRoy Satterlee, of New York, for the season.

A lot of land, containing 41,802 square feet, was sold at mortgagee's sale Tuesday to Geo. G. Haven, of New York, for $10,500. The land is situated on Cranston avenue, and belonged to the Seymour estate.

T. Nelson Dale, of Patterson, N. J., has sold an undivided one-half interest in the Dale estate on Gibbs avenue to Frederick S. Dale, also of Patterson, for $7,000.

J. Neilson Howard & Co. have rented the middle store in Whitehall to Mrs. M. T. McIntyre for the season.

Mrs. Mary E. Dennis has sold one house lot on the Point to Mrs. Annie F. Bachelor, one to Mr. John Carr, and one to Mrs. Lillie D. Stoddard, for immediate improvement. These are some of the lots advertised in last Saturday's issue.

A Sailor Drowned.

John Hirsch, a sailor on the schooner E. S. Potter, from Warren for Philadelphia, fell overboard when off Patience Island Thursday afternoon, and was drowned. The body was recovered and brought into this port in the evening, where it was given in charge of the overseers of the poor. There being no friends to claim the remains, they were interred in the Potter's Field yesterday by Mr. Cottrell. The young man shipped from Providence Thursday morning.

Mr. Aaron S. Coggeshall, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Middletown, died at his residence last Sunday after a long and painful illness, aged 61 years. His funeral was solemnized from the Methodist church at Middletown Four Corners, Wednesday afternoon and was attended by a large number from this city.

Commodore Stephen B. Luce has been detached from the command of the training squadron on the 30th inst., when he will be succeeded by Captain Philip C. Johnson, now on duty as chief signal officer of the navy. Capt. E. O. Mathews has also been detached from the New Hampshire on the same date.

J. D. Johnston, of this city, is making extensive alterations and improvements to the villa on Purgatory road belonging to Mr. Julian T. Davies of New York. It will probably not be ready for occupancy before another season.

Those contemplating having pictures taken, should not fail to visit the new photograph parlors just opened in Read's block, on Marlboro' street, by Mr. C. W. Holloway. Read the advertisement in another column.

Naval Cadet Arthur H. Clarke, son of Mr. Henry W. Clarke, of this city, has passed his final examination and received an appointment of second lieutenant of marines.

The will of the late W. T. Hall has been admitted to probate in Boston. The appraisers of the estate have been in town this week prizing his property. Geo. N. Durfee of Fall River, is one of the appraisers.

Rev. F. W. Ryder, of East Greenwich, will preach at the First Baptist Church in this city to-morrow.

Edwin Booth, whose summer home is on Indian avenue, has changed his residence from New York to Boston.

All complaints of dry weather were drowned out during Wednesday night and Thursday.

The extensive grounds of summer residences along Bellevue avenue and vicinity never looked finer than at present.

Marinus Willett, of Newport, has obtained a patent on an apparatus for concentrating sulphuric acid.

Poles for electric lights have been erected at the Elm and Bridge street railroad crossings.

Mr. W. F. Whitehouse, of Chicago, who owns a cottage on Rhode Island avenue, has returned from Europe.

Steamer Achilles, Capt. Rand, from Newburyport for Philadelphia, put into this port Thursday with a broken eccentric.

Freight steamers City of Fall River and City of New Bedford, of the Old Colony line, are laid up here for an overhauling.

Schooner yacht Dauntless, Caldwell H. Colt, owner, sailed from Madeira, 14th inst., for "Newport or New Bedford."

The United States steamer Nina made a trial of her new steering apparatus yesterday, over the measured sea-mile.

OLD TIME NEWPORT.

NO. 5.

Villa Life.

Mr. Editor Perhaps the very first "cottage" that I can remember in Newport or its vicinity was that of Mr. Joseph K. Angell near the third beach. Whether it is still standing I do not know, but at that period, nigh fifty years ago, strangers in Newport were driven across the beaches to see it. Mr. Angell was a man of most distinguished attainments. He had wonderful and almost instinctive knowledge of law, and his works, such as "Angell on Water Courses," and other learned books of similar nature will long preserve his name among legal writers. He was an intimate friend and confidential companion of your late honored Chief Justice Ames.

The next villa that I can recollect is that of Mr. Ball on the corner of Catherine and Touro streets, "Bellevue avenue" not then existing, as the wizard Alfred Smith, for aught I know, was still unborn. It was a square, plain, honest mansion, without the least pretence, but there Mr. Ball for some summers hospitably entertained his friends, and his superb cream-colored horses dashed up and down the country roads and over the beaches with a vim that excited the youthful envy of Wm. C. Tennant, better known as "Dr. Tennant," and first led him to handle those ribbons of which he afterward became such a finished master. Mr. Ball and his family, as before observed, perished in the Home steamship on their way from New York to Charleston in a terrible gale. I believe there was some lawsuit a year or two afterward as to which died first in the shipwreck, and I think it was decided that Mrs. Ball inherited the estate because she was heard to give the last shriek—a sad ending, indeed, to a homeward voyage and on a vessel called the "Home."

What became of the house immediately after the tragedy of the Balls I do not know, but it was subsequently bought by Dr. David King. And here before I write a line more, let me pay my tribute of respect to that noble gentleman, that Christian physician, that fine scholar, one of the best patrons of the Redwood Library, and one of the most industrious collectors and illustrators of the annals of the noble old State of Rhode Island. Starting in life with very limited means, he, by industry and perseverance, acquired a large fortune, but he left beyond that a name to his children and to the citizens of Newport that will not be speedily forgotten.

I also remember "Finn's Cottage" on John street, which for quite a time was a show place like Angell's. Finn was a distinguished actor in New York, and spent his summers in Newport. He unfortunately, like Mr. Ball, met an untimely fate. He was lost in the Lexington on Long Island Sound in a winter passage of 1839. The boat took fire, and a large number of persons perished. Besides Mr. Finn, Dr. Fallon, of Boston, a distinguished citizen of German birth, also lost his life.

Mr. Harry Schroeder was one of the earliest patrons of Newport under its villa regime. A retired merchant of Baltimore, he was soon attracted by the charms of the "city by the sea," or quiet little town as it was then. He bought the lot of ground now owned by Mr. Richard M. Hunt, and built a two-story cottage upon it. His wife planted every tree upon the place herself. Their daughter married Mr. Gilliatt, an English gentleman of taste and fortune, and he proceeded to erect two beautiful villas on Touro street, one for his mother on the corner of Touro and Mill streets, and the other directly opposite on the corner of the Old Bath road. Both were beautiful specimens of architecture, and were greatly admired in their day. The larger villa, on the east side of the present Bellevue avenue, was originally of two stories only, with a classic portico and a carriage drive on the side next to the Redwood Library. Mr. Gilliatt resided here some years, but being fond of change the place was sold to Mr. Samuel Ward, of New York, a partner in the famous firm of Prime, Ward & King, and the father of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe and of Sam Ward, so well known in Washington as "the lobbyist." Under Mr. Ward's ownership the villa remained unaltered. It next passed to Mr. Augustus Thorndike, a wealthy gentleman of Boston, by whom the external aspect of the place was changed. The portico was pulled down, and a wide verandah erected instead. The drive way on the north was discontinued, and the entrance to the villa made from the Bath road. A third story was also added to the mansion. These alterations, although doubtless adding much to the convenience of the house, detracted from its appearance, as up to that time it was considered almost as perfect a model of classic beauty as the neighboring Redwood Library.

Mr. Thorndike occupied the villa for many summers, and dispensed there a liberal hospitality. It subsequently had various owners. Mr. Wm. H. King purchased it after his return from China with a large fortune, and it afterwards passed into the hands of Mr. J. Abbot Lawrence, of Boston, and has changed possession several times since.

After Mr. Gilliatt sold this villa he eventually bought Mr. Schroeder's, and lifting it in air built a basement under it. Mr. Schroeder, then reserving a little corner of the lot on Catherine street, erected a tiny cottage for himself and wife, where they passed the remainder of their days. The original house was bought from Mr. Gilliatt by William M. Hunt, the celebrated artist, and brother of the present owner.

Mr. George H. Calvert, also of Baltimore, was not very long after Mr. Schroeder. He bought a number of acres on Kay street, and erected a plain but comfortable cottage. His land, like all other in the vicinity, has risen immensely in value. About the same time my uncle, Mr. William C. Shaw, bought an acre of ground adjoining Mr. Christopher Fry's house, directly opposite the head of the Old Mill lot. He paid $2,000 for the ground, and the Quakerly plain house he put upon it hardly cost $2,000 more. After his death Alfred Smith sold the place for over $12,000. The cottage was moved off and went down the avenue, where the last time I saw it it seemed transmogrified into a house of seventy-seven gables. Mr. Fry's adjoining high-roofed house, a counterpart of the old "Hunter" mansion on "the Point," was also removed, and the two places thus combined made room for Mr. Griswold's superb villa.

Mr. David Sears, of Boston, in 1845 bought the Easton place on the Old Bath road. For the twenty acres the lot comprised he paid $500 an acre, $10,000 in all, and then thought a high price. His house frame was built in Boston, or rather designed, measured and cut out there. It was then, as lumber, brought down to Newport and erected on the lot. A costly stone fence replaced the old moss-grown tumbling wall. Mr. Sears spent many summers here with his family. After his death his original purchase of $10,000 sold for more than $200,000; a large portion of the land commanding $15,000 an acre instead of $500. Such buildings were indeed "cottages," a name which, however, seems to have become perpetuated in the largest and most costly structures since erected.

Belonging to this earlier period, originating, indeed, very long before it, were several villas at different points upon the island. These possessed a very interesting character, appertaining to the "old regime" of Newport; wealth and taste appreciating it were in "the good old colony times."

Beside the once famous "Malbone Place," even before the Revolution, existing only as a romantic and deserted ruin, there stood upon the West road the Northam mansion, a spacious house and with large grounds, belonging to a well known family in Newport, and the Vernon and Collins villas, and some six miles from town, upon the East road, the more famous "Vaucluse." The Vernon villa, most charmingly situated, commanding a view of the beach and ocean on one side, and the lovely Western Bay upon the other, belonged to one of the old grandee families of Newport, which had been distinguished long before the Revolution. Adjacent to it was the "Collins place," as it was called in my boyhood, now belonging to Mr. Henry Bull. This house was originally reared in colonial times by an officer of the Customs, I think, named Dudley, who made himself so obnoxious to the "rebels," as the British styled our patriot sires, that he was forced to flee, and the place was afterwards confiscated by the State government. During the British occupation a line of breastworks and, indeed, a regular fort were built along these heights, stretching across the island. Traces of these still remain. The ample porch surrounding the villa was erected, I believe, by Governor Collins. Lovely as is this situation and ample the house, it was at the period I speak of for sale, and a long time without a purchaser. The entire estate, comprising some twenty-six acres, was offered to my uncle, Mr. William C. Shaw, of Baltimore, for $5,000, and $4,000 in cash would doubtless have secured it. Its position is unrivalled, and in the hands of its present owner it has become one of the choicest seats upon the island.

"Vaucluse," on the romantic shore of the east bay or Seaconnet River, is also of historic interest. It, too, was built, if I mistake not, before the Revolution by a wealthy Quaker, Samuel Elam. It is said that Mr. Elam, having some love affair of unrequited nature, likened himself to Petrarch, and in memory of his own lost Laura named the place "Vaucluse." If so, the love-lorn Quaker's sonnets have not come down to us. Beside laying out the grounds in exquisite style, which after a century still preserve their charms, he very wisely devoted himself to agricultural pursuits. While he, therefore, fondly cherished the memory of the fair one, Mr. Elam doubtless reflected that poetry and potatoes both began with p, and he introduced to the public such a superior kind of the latter article that for many years it went by his name, the "Elam potato." This was much more wise and charitable on his part than if he had made the groves of Vaucluse resound with the melancholy tinklings of his lyre to the hard-hearted Laura, or bemoaned his sad lot in poems for the waste basket of the Newport MERCURY. Mr. Elam never married, but remained constant to his only love. The place was subsequently owned by the De Wolfs and other families, and at one time by Mr. Gilliatt, before mentioned. Let me revert again to the good old Baltimore patrons of the early Newport days, those sweet, gentle, peaceful days of "clover bloom and twinkling grass," when we could roam from end to end of the island, scaring no living thing except perhaps plover from its solitary nest. During these quiet times two Baltimore ladies of illustrious birth and fortune often sought the island, Mrs. Robert Goodlove Harper and her daughter, Miss Emily Harper. Mrs. Harper was the daughter of Charles Carroll, of Carrolton, the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence. Her husband was a celebrated lawyer, whom she outlived very many years. Her daughter was distinguished for elegance of manners and colloquial powers, which she still retains, while her unswerving faith in the Roman Catholic church has not only led many into it, but has won the respect of the most staunch Protestants. In the beautiful church of St. Mary's in your city is a large stained glass window behind the altar, bearing beneath it the motto, "Pray for the donors, Catherine and Emily Harper." All can unite in this prayer cheerfully, those outside as well as within the communion of Rome. Mrs. Harper bought several lots on the corner of Bellevue avenue and Narragansett avenue, and erected a plain one-story cottage. This has several times changed hands, and is now owned by Major Bryce. Subsequently Mrs. Harper owned a place near the Spouting Rock beach, having been so overrun with company at the old resort that she was absolutely forced to retire from the incessant demands upon her time and hospitality.

Chief Marshal.

Poetry.

A Relic.

We found, that night, when, free from pain at last
She slumbered in the darkened room below,
In her old Bible, pressed and folded fast,
A flower gathered fifty years ago.

Wondering we scanned it there, so brown with age,
So withered, and with curious eyes read o'er
The writing traced beneath it on the page—
A date, a dim initial—nothing more—

And asked, with eyes that filled we knew not why,
And hands that touched it gently, reverently,
What dear memorial of days gone by
The little faded flowret might be.

Why had she kept it hidden there away
Through all those years? what hopes, what joys that were,
What golden memory of some far day,
Spoke softly from those withered leaves to her?

What potent talisman was this to start
To life again that old forgotten time,
Renewing in her chill and wintry heart
The flush and fragrance of her youth's glad prime?

Had hand of lover gathered it that day,
That fair, bright summer day, so long ago?
What sweet, shy dreams lay folded there away?
What maiden hopes and fears? We might not know.

Silent we stood. We felt a sense of shame,
As those who, wandering, enter unaware
Some holy place. Ah me, we were to blame!
Softly we turned, and left it lying there.

But when we gathered for our last, long look
Upon her in her calm and tranquil rest,
We drew the flower from the worn old book
And laid it gently on her peaceful breast.

Could We But Know.

We purely love, and seek with service sweet
Some true response to earn;
We give, and give, until our hearts may break,
And meet with no return.
O love, O slighted love, where dost thou go?
Could we but know!

We catch some noble hope, and tenderly
We nurse it day by day,
Even on our souls; yet weeping we may see
It slowly fade away.
O hope, sweet flattering hope, where dost thou go?
Could we but know!

We build so patiently, we toil for years,
We are so glad and brave;
The end perchance is failure, loss and tears,
And the low dreamless grave.
O wasted labor, is it even so?
Where did it go?

Where do they go, our neglected prayers,
Our sweet vain dreams and aims,
Our patient slighted love, our thoughtful cares,
Lost labors, and lost gains?
And are they lost indeed? Or is it we
Who fail to see?

Where goes the perfume of the musk-sweet rose,
The robin's happy song,
The murmur of the river as it flows,
The wind so fresh and strong?
The scent, the melody, the help, each gives
Most surely lives.

No good thing can be lost, no real worth,
Nothing that's true and pure.
We do not see the seed-corn in the earth:
The harvest time is sure.
Prayer, love, and hope, and work, are golden grain
None sows in vain.

Selected Tale.

ENTOMBED ALIVE.

In the summer of 1873 Senor Honrandez opened a little locksmith's shop in the city of Mexico and soon worked himself into a prosperous business. Late one evening a lady, closely veiled, entered his shop, and pulling from beneath a cloak a small Japanese box, requested Honrandez to open it. The lock was curiously constructed, and an hour elapsed before a key could be made to fit it. The lady seemed nervous at the delay, and at length requested the locksmith to close the door. This suggestion occasioned some surprise on the part of Honrandez, but he willingly complied. Shutting the door and returning to his work, the lady withdrew her veil, disclosing a sweet and intelligent face. There was a restlessness in the eye and a pallor in the cheek, however, which plainly told of a heart ill at ease, and in a moment every emotion for her could give place to that of pity.

"Perhaps you are not well, madam, and the night air is too chilly?" said the locksmith inquisitively.

"In requesting you to close the door I had no other object than to escape the attention of passers by."

Honrandez did not reply, but thoughtfully continued his work. She resumed:

"That little box contains valuable papers—private papers—and I have lost the key, or it has been stolen! I should not wish to have you remember that I ever came here on such an errand," she continued with some hesitation, at the same time giving Honrandez a look which was no difficult matter for him to understand.

"Certainly, madam; if you desire it. If I cannot forget your face, I will at least attempt to lose the recollection of ever seeing it here," said Honrandez.

The lady bowed rather coldly to this remark, and Honrandez proceeded with his work. Having succeeded, after much filing and fitting, in turning the lock, he was seized with a curiosity to get a glimpse at the precious contents of the box, and suddenly raising the lid, discovered a bundle of letters, and a daguerreotype, as he slowly passed the box to its owner.—She seized it hurriedly, and placing the letters and picture in her pocket, locked the box and drawing the veil over her face, she passed into the street, whispering as she passed Honrandez—"Remember!"

About 2 o'clock in the morning, in the latter part of May following, Honrandez was awakened by a gentle tap upon the window of the little room back of his shop, in which he slept. In a moment he was at the window.

"Who's there?" he inquired, peering out into the darkness.

"Hist!" exclaimed a figure, stepping in front of the window; "open the door. I have business for you."

"Rather past business hours, I should say; but who are you?"

"No one who would harm you," returned the voice, which Honrandez imagined was rather feminine for a burglar's.

Pushing back the bolt, and slowly opening the door, Honrandez discovered the stranger already on the steps.

"What do you want?" abruptly asked Honrandez.

"I will tell you," answered the same soft voice, "if you dare open the door wide enough for me to enter."

"Come in," said Honrandez, resolutely, throwing the door open, and proceeding to light a candle. Having succeeded, he turned to examine his visitor. He was a small and neatly dressed gentleman, with a heavy cloak around his shoulders, and a blue navy cap drawn suspiciously over the eyes. As Honrandez advanced toward him, he seemed to hesitate a moment, then raised the cap from his forehead, and looked Honrandez curiously in the face. The latter did not drop the candle, but acknowledged to a little nervousness by hurriedly placing the candle upon the table and investing himself with two or three necessary articles of clothing.

Smiling at Honrandez's apparent discomfort, the visitor said:

"Disguise is useless; I presume you recognize me?"

"I believe I told you, madam, when I opened the little box for you some time ago, I should not soon forget your face. In what way can I serve you?"

"By doing an hour's work before daylight to-morrow, and receiving $500 for your labor," was the reply.

"It is not ordinary work," said Honrandez, inquiringly, "that commands so munificent a compensation."

"It is a labor common to your calling," returned the lady. "The price not so much for the labor, as the condition under which it must be performed."

"And what is the condition," inquired Honrandez.

"That you will submit to being conveyed and returned to your own door blindfolded."

Ideas of murder, burglary and almost every other crime presented themselves in succession as Honrandez politely bowed and said:

"I must understand something more of the character of the employment, as well as the conditions, to accept your offer."

"Will not $500 answer in lieu of an explanation?"

"No, nor five thousand."

"Well, then, if it is absolutely necessary for me to explain," she replied, "I must tell you that you are required to pick the lock of the vault, and—"

"You have gone quite far enough, senora, with the explanation," interrupted Honrandez, "I am not at your service."

"As I said," she continued, "you are required to pick a lock of a vault and rescue from death a man who has been confined there for three days.

To whom does the vault belong?" inquired Honrandez.

"My husband," was the somewhat reluctant reply.

"Then why so much secrecy, or, rather, how came a man confined in such a place?"

"I secreted him there to escape the observation of my husband. He suspected as much and closed the door upon him. Presuming he had left the vault and quitted the house by the back door, I did not dream until to-day that he was confined there. Certain suspicious acts of my husband this afternoon convinced me that the man is there, beyond human hearing, and will be starved to death by my barbarous husband, unless immediately rescued. For three days he has not left the house. I drugged him less than an hour ago, and now he is so completely stupefied that the lock may be picked without his interference. I have searched his pockets, but could not find the key; hence my application to you. Now you know all; will you accompany me?"

"To the end of the world, madam, on such an errand."

"Then prepare yourself; there is a cab at the door."

Honrandez was a little surprised, for he had not heard the sound of wheels. Hastily drawing on a coat and providing himself with the required implements, he was soon at the door. There sure enough, was the carriage, with the driver in the seat ready for the mysterious journey. Honrandez entered the vehicle, followed by the lady. As soon as she was seated, she produced a heavy handkerchief, which, by the faint light of an adjacent street lamp, she carefully bound round her companion's eyes. She then seated herself beside him, and the cab started. In half an hour the vehicle stopped—in what part of the city Honrandez was entirely ignorant, as it was evidently driven in anything but a direct line course from the point of starting.

Examining the bandage to see that his vision was completely obscured, the lady handed Honrandez the bundle of tools with which he was provided; then taking him by the arm led him through a gate into a house, and, after taking him along a passageway which was about fifty feet in length, and down a flight of stairs into what was evidently an underground basement, stopped beside a vault and removed the handkerchief from his eyes.

"Here is the vault—open it," said she, springing the door of a dark lantern and throwing a beam of light upon the lock.

Honrandez seized the bunch of skeleton keys, and, after a few trials, which the lady seemed to watch with the most painful anxiety, sprang the bolt. The door swung upon its hinges, and the lady telling Honrandez not to close it, as it was self-locking, sprang into the vault. Honrandez did not follow. He heard the murmur of low voices within, and the next moment the lady re-appeared, and leaning upon her arm a man, with a face so pale and haggard that Honrandez started at the sight. What intense suffering the unfortunate man must have endured during the three long days of his confinement.

"Remain here," she said, "I will be back in a moment."

The two slowly ascended the stairs and entered a room immediately over where Honrandez was standing. In less than a minute the lady returned.

"Shall I close it, madam?" said Honrandez, placing his hand upon the door of the vault.

"No! no!" she exclaimed hastily seizing his arms; "it awaits another occupant."

"Madam, you certainly do not intend to—"

"Are you ready?" she interrupted impatiently, holding the handkerchief to Honrandez's eyes. The thought flashed across his mind that she intended to push him into the vault and bury him and his secret together. She seemed to read his suspicion and continued: "Do not be alarmed, you are not the man."

Honrandez could not mistake the truth of the fearful meaning of the remark, and he shuddered as he bent his head to the handkerchief.

His eyes were carefully bandaged, and he was led to the carriage, and thence home by a more circuitous route, if possible, than the one by which he came. Arriving in front of the house, the handkerchief was removed, and Honrandez stepped from the vehicle. A purse of $500 was placed in his hands, and in a moment the cab and its mysterious occupant had turned the corner and was out of sight.

The money seemed to be cursed. From that night Honrandez neglected his flourishing business, and with the $500 and that which he had managed to save, he plunged into a life of dissipation which, in a short, time ended fatally.

In the meanwhile the sudden disappearance of Senor Cavasso, the wealthy banker, became the universal topic of conversation, and though his wife gave every sign of poignant grief over the absence of senor, the knowing ones winked significantly at each other, and whispered that Senor Cavasso's whereabouts was clouded in the deepest mystery. The police could obtain no clue, and senora pretended the utmost sorrow for her lost husband. It was known that the two did not live happily together, but nothing further could be elicited whereby a tangible clew could be obtained.

Honrandez had drifted from bad to worse, until thrown upon a bed of delirium he was given up by the physicians as a hopeless case. While tossing in his delirium he graphically described the incidents of the night of his opening the vault, which facts coming to the ears of the police, an investigation was made, and when the vault was opened Senor Cavasso's remains were found. While sleeping under the drug administered by his wife, he was carried to the vault and awoke to find himself entombed alive.

Before the officers succeeded in taking senora to jail she had cut an artery in her arm and bled to death. Honrandez died in all the agonies of the delirium tremens, and the senora's paramour met a horrible death at the hands of an infuriated husband.

"A Vast Rotting Jungle of Dead Religions."

Mr. Moncure D. Conway has recently spent some time in India, on his journey around the world. While visiting the Sandwich Islands he was greatly dissatisfied, not to say scandalized, at the decorous and reverent way they all went to church on Sunday in Honolulu, both native and foreign population, leaving our heathen traveler all to himself. As for places of business or amusement, they were all closed, and so continued throughout the day. Our ex-American, London free-thinker had of course heard that missionaries had labored in these Islands with great success, but he supposed this only meant that the natives had concluded to put away their idols, put on clothes, and stop killing and eating each other, just to please the missionaries, and by way of more substantial compensation, got some of the handsome knives and guns of the white people. He was therefore not at all prepared for what he witnessed and lamented—a Sabbath of almost old Puritan gravity and strictness, everybody in clean clothes and wending his and her way to church or Sunday-school, and this kept up all day. Doubtless the unwonted and distasteful scene shortened Mr. Conway's stay. He seems to have taken offence at the general quiet which had settled down on all secular affairs, the absence of levity and noise and their concomitants from the streets, and the really serious tone of the entire city. In writing from there he thought it necessary to warn all pleasure-loving tourists that Honolulu is insufferably decent and dull on Sunday—the European day not having got so far into the Pacific.

Our English traveler has spent years in studying the lore of the East, and like Edwin Arnold and others he has been especially fascinated with the so-called sacred books of India. He has put them on an equality, and in some respects even exalted them above the Christian Scriptures—spending years, as we have said, in their study and with this intent. Regarding the labors of Christian missionaries as of little worth, in fact as nothing short of an intrusion and impertinence in presuming to displace systems of belief older, and on the whole better suited to the Oriental mind at least, he has been looking forward to a protracted visit to India itself, and to a personal observation of the great religious festivals for which that country is so famous, in order to verify his long cherished theories beyond reasonable question, and withal put Exeter Hall to open confusion. And we are free to say, had our traveler found just what he was looking for, it would have made a great impression on his readers, and a convincing one on all of his way of thinking. This, for the reason that Mr. Conway means to be honest, and to report things as he sees them. Alas for his expectations—his former boastings! But we will not protract, or in any way enlarge upon, the bitterness of his discovery of a pitch of degradation which he seems to have regarded as impossible in India, guided as her gods and sages have been for now so many centuries by wisdom so superior. A doubting Thomas as regards all things Christian, nothing short of the evidence of his own senses could have impelled Mr. Conway to this confession, written from the very shrines of India:

"But when I went to the great cities, the pilgrim sites to which throng every year millions of those who profess to follow the faith of the men who wrote these books, and mingled with the vast processions of worshippers at the shrines sacred to the deities whose praises are sung by the Hindu poets, then, alas! the contrast between the real and the ideal was heart-breaking. In all those teeming myriads of worshippers not one man, not even one woman, seemed to entertain the shadow of a conception of anything ideal, or spiritual, or religious, or even mythological, in their ancient creed; not one glimmer of the great thoughts of their poets and sages lightened their darkened temples. Of religion in a spiritual sense there is none. Looking down in all but despair upon this vast rotting jungle of dead religions, watching these gods of worship, which in any other country but the East would qualify the worshippers for admission into a lunatic asylum, I felt that I was in the presence of a vast mass of disease, which could be healed by nothing around it. At present the prospect seems almost hopeless."

Had our enlightened London heathen included Africa in his journey, and as a consistent respecter, when not an admirer and advocate, of "ancient customs," been invited to participate in the time-honored ceremonies incident to the burial of an African king—a potentate, by the way, whom he recently met in London, and perhaps congratulated on his imperviousness to missionary influence — could our traveller have participated in the funeral observances in honor of the king, and this at a somewhat late stage of the ceremonies, and from the vantage of a front seat, he would have been in a position to treat the testimony of his senses relative to still another phase of real heathenism—not the London sort, but as it exists to-day wherever unreached by Christian influence in India and Africa. We refer to the accounts which are just now at hand, by private letters, of the funeral ceremonies performed in honor of the famous Zulu king, Cetywayo, who died some months since. In this case the heathen rites usual on such occasions were mitigated. We are told that

"The intervention of the British authorities was fortunately sufficient to set aside one horrible custom which is as scrupulously maintained in Zululand as in Dahomey, viz.: the burying alive of the dead King's widows in the same grave with himself, in order that their sou's may be ready to attend him in the next world. But the corpse was kept above ground for several weeks after death, being fastened in a sitting posture to a stout post in the centre of one of the huts, with all its ornaments and weapons around it. In the hut occupied by this fearful tenant the unhappy widows were forced to spend many hours every day for weeks together, sitting or standing around the corpse, till at length, as might be expected, they were all but stifled with heat, and with the foul odor of the dead body."—A Novel Church Benefit.

A Novel Church Benefit.

We do not remember ever to have heard of so novel a thing in the line of church entertainments as is reported in a Georgia paper, the Darien Gazette. According to that journal, a "poster" widely distributed in Darien, gave notice of the following extraordinary event:

"NOTICE!—He Will Hang on June 20th. There will be a Grand Excursion From Darien to Brunswick, Thursday, June 19th. $1. Everybody Can Go Cheap. $1. Go and see a wonder that has not taken place in Glyn county before in 20 years. The steamer will leave Darien wharf at 3 on Thursday evening, and there will be a big supper and Hop at the Hall in Brunswick on Thursday night. Will return on Friday evening. $1. Round Trip Only $1. Children Not Excepted. Remember, good order will be enforced. Remember, Refreshments will be had on the steamer. Remember, a good band of music will attend. Remember, we will go Thursday, June 19th. Remember, round trip only $1. Remember, no difference made for children. Come one, Come all, and Go with us. Tickets can be had any time from the Committee.

DR. G. W. HARRIS, REV. JAMES G. KITCHENS, } Com.

The Rev. Messrs. Harris and Kitchens are members of the Savanah Conference (colored) of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and what they propose is an excursion (for the benefit of the church, we presume) to see if a hanging of a colored man, "Rube" Peyton, an event which had not occurred in the county before for twenty years. The idea of thus employing so rare an opportunity for a pleasant excursion, for a novel sight, and for the improvement of the church finances and morals could only have been born of a fertile mind. It was too great a treat not to be offered to everybody, and notice is given that "Children are not excepted." In order to add to the exquisite enjoyment of the occasion "a hop at the hall" is promised old and young. Altogether, it completely eclipses any known species of church entertainments heretofore devised. The church lottery and grab bag and mock wedding pale into insignificance beside it. An excursion, a hanging and a hop, from which not even children are to be excluded! What a rare combination!—Sunday (N. Y.) Independent.

Life among the Mormons.—"My dear," said a Mormon wife to her husband, "I should think that you would be ashamed of yourself, flirting with that Miss B. as you did in church to-day." "Flirting with her?" he replied in astonishment. "Why we have been engaged for more than three months. It's all over town." "Oh, I beg your pardon," said his wife indifferently. "If you are engaged to her, I suppose it is all right. When does the happy event occur?"

"Here we are within a quarter of a mile of land!" was the joyful cry of the captain of an ocean steamer to his grumbling passengers. "Where?" Which way is it?" "Anywhere down there," said the captain, pointing downward. "The lead gives us 220 fathoms of water and the land comes slap up against the brine."

If it were possible to get the testimony of the multitude who have used HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA for debility, languor, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which every one feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelming mass of commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that Hood's Sarsaparilla contains more real medicinal value than any article before the people.

What a Man Did with Kidney Complaint

DRACUT, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sirs—I have suffered from Kidney complaint and biliousness for fifteen years. Have tried everything and never got any good. Last January, before I commenced taking HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, everything I ate bloated me all up, pain in my chest and arms, headache and dizzy. I could not get up without feeling weary and all fagged out. Many mornings I was obliged to lie down on the lounge. To do any work seemed almost impossible. Have taken two bottles. The backache, dizziness, pain in my chest and arms, and that feeling of lassitude weariness are all gone. I can eat anything and it does not press me at all. Feel just like work; in fact, like a new man. Can heartily recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and hope all who desire to know anything about it will come to me and ask what I think of it. Very truly yours,

SHERIFF'S SALE.

STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS

SHERIFF'S OFFICE, Newport, March 20th, A. D. 1884.

NEWPORT, SC.

BY VIRTUE, and in pursuance of an Execution issued out of the Court of Common Pleas, within and for the county of Newport, on the 17th day of March, A. D. 1884, and returnable to the May term of said court, A. D. 1884, upon a judgment rendered by said court on the 29th day of November, A. D. 1883, in favor of Albert Peckham administrator on the estate of Cornelia G. A. Almy, of Little Compton, in said county of Newport and State aforesaid, plaintiff, and against Charles A. Seabury, of Boston, in the State of Massachusetts, defendant, I have this day at 30 minutes past 10 o'clock, A. M., levied the said Execution on all the right, title and interest, which the said defendant Charles A. Seabury had on the 20th day of October, A. D. 1883, at five minutes past nine o'clock, A. M., (the time of the attachment on the original writ,) in and to a certain tract or parcel of land, known as the homestead farm of the late Pardon Almy, and containing by estimation 166 acres of land, more or less, with all the buildings and improvements thereupon and the appurtenances thereunto belonging, situate in said town of Little Compton, in said county of Newport in the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, and bounded

NORTH, on land of the heirs or devisees of Joseph Osborn, late of Tiverton, deceased, on the Wilbor Lot, so called, and on land now or formerly of Rouse Pierce:—

SOUTH, on land of John S. Almy:—

EAST, on lands now or formerly of Rouse Pierce; of Eli Wordell and of Thomas Pierce, and WEST, on the Great Highway leading from the Seanes Bridge to Seaconnet Point—being the same premises and estate conveyed to Albert Seabury by Charles Almy and Sanford Almy, by deed dated March 9th, A. D. 1871, and recorded in book 13 page 185, of the Land Evidence of said Town of Little Compton.

AND

NOTICE is hereby given that I will sell the said attached estate at a Public Auction to be held in front of the Town Hall on the Common, in said town of Little Compton, in said county of Newport, on Monday, the 30th day of June, A. D. 1884, at one o'clock P. M., for the satisfaction of said execution, debt, interest on the same, costs of suit, my own fees and all contingent expenses, if sufficient.

NO CURE! NO PAY!
Dr. Lawrence's
Cough Balsam

is warranted to cure COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, SORE THROAT, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

We do not claim to cure consumption when it is thoroughly seated, but we do claim thousands of lives might be saved every year by the timely use of Dr. Lawrence's Cough Balsam.

Many people imagine they have consumption when in reality they only have a bad cold, which can easily be cured by proper care and the right kind of medicine. We could fill columns with testimonials, but do not believe in that way of advertising, our idea is to let everybody that is afflicted with a cough try for themselves, and if not perfectly satisfied, return the empty bottle to the dealer of whom it was bought and receive their money back.

Price for Trial Size, 25 Cts.
Family Size, $1. per Bottle.

KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

SCROFULA

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It is so effectual an alterative that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it enriches and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and rejuvenating the entire system. This great

Regenerative Medicine

Is composed of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other ingredients of great potency, carefully and scientifically compounded. Its formula is generally known to the medical profession, and the best physicians constantly prescribe AYER'S SARSAPARILLA as an Absolute Cure

For all diseases caused by the vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest practicable degree, far beyond any other preparation for which like effects are claimed, and is therefore the cheapest, as well as the best blood purifying medicine, in the world.

These celebrated Bitters are composed of choice Roots, Herbs and Barks, among which are Gentian, Sarsaparilla, Wild Cherry, Dandelion, Juniper and other berries, and are so prepared as to retain all their medicinal qualities, and will cure the following complaints:

Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaints, Loss of Appetite, Headaches, Bilious Attacks, Summer Complaints, Piles, Kidney Diseases, Female Difficulties, Lassitude, Low Spirits, General Debility, and, in fact, everything caused by an impure state of the Blood or deranged condition of the Stomach, Liver or Kidneys. The aged find in Quaker Bitters, a gentle, soothing stimulant, so desirable in their declining years.

They are recommended and used by eminent physicians and clergymen.

No one need suffer long from any disease if they will use Quaker Bitters, as they effect a cure where other remedies fail. Sufferer, try them, they will cure you; they have cured thousands.

Climbing the Spiral Stairs.

Invisible Architecture in a New England Parsonage.

"Yes," she said, "our children are married and gone, and my husband and I sit by our winter fire much as we did before the little ones came to widen the circle. Life is something like a spiral staircase: we are all the time coming around over the spot we started from, only one degree further up the stairs."

"That is a pretty illustration," remarked her friend, musingly, gazing into the glowing coals which radiated a pleasant heat from the many windowed stove. "You know we cannot stop toiling up the hill, though."

"Surely we cannot, and for myself I don't find fault with that necessity provided the advance in life is not attended with calamity or suffering, for I have had my share of that. Not long since my health utterly broke down. My system was full of malaria. My digestion became thoroughly disordered and my nerves were in a wretched state. I was languid, ate little and that without enjoying it, and had no strength or ambition to perform even my light household duties. Medical treatment failed to reach the seat of the trouble. The disease—which seemed to be weakness of all the vital organs—progressed until I had several attacks which my physicians pronounced to be acute congestion of the stomach. The last of these was a desperate struggle and I was given up to die. As the crisis had partially passed, my husband heard of the merits of PARKER'S TONIC as an invigorant in just such cases as mine. I took it and felt its good effects at once. It appeared to pervade my body, as though the blessing of new life had come to me. Taking no other medicine I continued to improve, and am now in better health than I have been for a long time."

QUARTERLY REVIEW.

GOLDEN TEXT.—If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.—Gal. 5:25.

TIME, A. D. 54 to 58.

Review of the Quarter.

We give our readers this week the suggestive and helpful "Review Hints," prepared for the Sunday-School World, by Rev. Dr. John Hall, of New York.

The committee charged with preparing the lessons (and which has now completed a second seven years' course) had many objects to be considered, some of which would not naturally occur to an observer. Communications came from various quarters, representing great diversities of capacities to teach, and need of being taught. Even diverse nationalities as well as diverse Christian communities had to be considered, and, withal, it was essential that in each course a full and fair view should be presented of the word of God as a whole.

In view of these and other like considerations the historical is here blended with the didactic—a mode of treating this part of Scripture which many writers, like Conybeare and Howson, have adopted with success.

Ephesus, Corinth, Galatia and Rome thus come under notice with their respective peculiarities, which a reviewer will endeavor to bring out by questions. The Scholar's Hand-book says:

"The superintendent or teacher can briefly describe the position, wealth and power of Ephesus in Paul's day; the magnificence of the temple of Diana at Ephesus, and the devotion of its people to the worship of this goddess; the state of the church at Corinth, and the temptations in that voluptuous Greek city; the backsliding and fickle character of the Galatian Christians, and the importance of a sound, stable church in Rome, the capital of the Roman empire and the then mistress of the world. Paul had not visited Rome, but intended soon to do so. The letter to the Romans is the most compact and remarkable symbol of evangelical doctrine in the Bible. It might be called Paul's 'systematic theology.'"

Naturally one tries, in framing the lines of a review, to obtain some unity, so that memory may be helped and one part of the exercise lead up to another. With this quarter's lessons more is lost than gained by an attempt of this kind, and the average reviewer will probably find it best to accept the situation and follow the simplest arrangement,—thus:

Paul.
- I.—PREACHING.
  - Beginning at Ephesus. (Lesson I.)
  - Reaping Fruit in Ephesus. (Lesson II.)
  - Opposed at Ephesus. (Lesson VII.)
- II.—TEACHING.
  - The Matter of Preaching. (Lesson III.)
  - The Principle of Abstinence. (Lesson IV.)
  - The Grace of Love. (Lesson V.)
  - The Victory over Death. (Lesson VI.)
  - The Grace of Liberality. (Lesson VIII.)
  - Christian Liberty. (Lesson IX.)
  - Justification by Faith. (Lesson X.)
  - The Blessedness of believers. (Lesson XI.)
  - The Duty of Citizens. (Lesson XII.)

It might further help the memory of some to sub-divide the second section by glancing at the parties taught by letters:

The Corinthians.
The Galatians and
The Romans.

Four lessons come under the first, one comes under the second, and four more under the third.

I. The following material for questions is furnished by the narrative of which Ephesus is the scene. This is Paul's third missionary journey; he was "strengthening the brethren;" his way was opened in Ephesus; the history and training of Apollos; his work completed by Paul; the twelve converts; the three months in the synagogue; the two years in Tyrannus' school; the Exits; the books burned; the alarm of the Idol-makers; the tumult; the leadership of Demetrius, and the practical townclerk.

II. Under the second section the difficulty is to bring the variety of great subjects under notice in the limited time available. The practical character of the lessons may be brought out with advantage by raising such points as these: May ministers preach what they please? (Lesson II.) What other things than Christ may invite them? (See I Cor. 1: 17, 19.) Is abstinence taught in Scripture? Is the principle of it good for today? Does it rest on the essential evil of the thing abstained from? Would there be self-denial in abstinence if it did? It is sometimes charged that the Bible does not give enough of ethics. Is this charge well founded? Why not? How are men to use property, liberty and law? Are not all these practical ethical questions? Did Paul (at Ephesus or elsewhere) contradict his own principles as to law? (Lesson XI.)

And, finally, too much stress can not be laid on the two connected topics, pardon received through faith in Jesus Christ, and the victory thus gained over death, as over all other enemies. Whether men live in Rome, Corinth, New York or St. Louis, whether they speak English or German, they need to know with the heart these two things, for "all have sinned," and "it is appointed to men once to die." A review may well close with the tender application of all this saving truth to the pupils. How many are resting in faith on the Redeemer.

Happy and Hungry.

For over five years I was a constant sufferer with that most terrible and annoying disease, dyspepsia. After paying out hundreds of dollars, the only medicine I found that would do me any good was Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. Now I can eat well and am happy and hungry.—[Editor.

Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.

For the Children.

Some Things Boys Should Know.

Boys should never go through life satisfied to be always borrowing other people's brains. There are some things they should find out for themselves. There is always something waiting to be found out. An apple dropped at the feet of Newton, and he took it as an invitation to study the forces of nature, and thereby discovered the law of gravitation. Every boy should think some thought, or do some good deed, that shall live after him. A farmer's boy should discover for himself what timber will bear the most weight, what is the most elastic, what will last the longest in the water and what is the best time to cut down trees for fire-wood. How many kinds of oaks grow in your region, and what is each especially good for? How does a bird fly without moving a wing or a feather? How does a snake climb a tree or a brick wall? Is there a difference between a deer's track and a hog's track? What is it? How often does a deer shed his horns and what becomes of them? In building a chimney which should be the largest, the throat or the funnel? Should it be wider at the top or drawn in? The boys see many horses. Did they ever see a white colt? Do they know how old a twig must be to bear peaches, and how old the vine is when grapes first hang upon it? There is a bird in the forest which never builds a nest but lays her eggs in the nest of other birds. Can the boys tell what bird it is? Do they know that a hop vine always winds with the course of the sun, but a bean vine always winds the other way? Do they know that when a horse crops grass he eats back toward him, but that a cow eats outward from her, because she has no teeth upon her upper jaw?

The Wasp.

I dare say you think that the wasp is an ugly, bad-tempered insect, who does nothing in the world but sting little children. She is apt to do this when she is meddled with. Of all things she dislikes a meddler. Yet, when she seems to be buzzing about, seeking whom she may sting, she is really busy making a home for her young.

I watched her at work the other day. She had chosen the ceiling of my room where the open window allowed her to pass in and out. She had already erected a little clay hut, with an opening at one end. In order to set her mind at rest, I let her finish her cradle and nursery. Daily it grew bigger, till it was perhaps as large as a large plum. Then one day she closed and locked the door, so to speak, and flew away.

When her back was turned I broke into her mud cabin, like a burglar. I found there two tiny rolls of something that looked like cotton-wool. Each was wrapped in a brown, gauzy blanket, and they were, in reality, the wasp's babies—her larvæ. The wasp is a worm before she gets her wings and sting. All around were lying the bodies of dead flies and spiders which the wise mother-wasp had stunned with her sting and sealed up with her babies in their snug quarters. When they woke up hungry they would find plenty of food in the cupboard.

The little worker was one of the wasps that live alone; but there are others who live together in little tenement houses of their own. They not only build their houses themselves, but they make the past-board for the wall and chambers from shreds of wood, as we make rags into paper.

You have heard of the great dogs of St. Bernard, which so often rescue travellers who lose their way in the snow in the mountains of Switzerland, and who would perish if not found by the intelligent dogs, who know just what to do in such cases. But this is the way a shepherd dog in England took to save the life of his master, a farmer. The farmer was going home from the market, where he had become very drunk. The night was intensely cold, the snow was falling thick and fast and blowing into drifts. The drunken man at last fell in the snow, and lay on his back, unable to rise. Then what do you think the faithful dog did? As if knowing by instinct that a covering of snow will actually keep off the severe cold, he carefully gathered the snow all around his master, and laid down himself at full length on the man's breast, thus keeping the vital parts warm. And there they laid the whole night, and there they were found in the morning. The farmer was soon restored. He put a silver collar on the dog, and you may be sure treated him as kindly as if he had been one of his own children.

A New York photographer is quoted as saying: "After twenty-five years' experience under the skylight, and after photographing over a hundred and forty seven thousand people, I have become convinced that in nineteen cases out of twenty, the left side of the face gives the most characteristic likeness, while to the same degree the right side is the most symmetrical."

JOHN P. SANBORN, Editor and Proprietor.

SATURDAY, JUNE 28, 1884.

John Kelley declares for Bayard for President.

The Boston bolting papers are happy. They say the bolt has lasted two weeks and is still alive. It continues of harmless proportions, however.

A New York banker named Burnham committed suicide a few days since owing to depression over his recent failure.

Gen. Butler thinks his chances are good for the Democratic nomination. He claims to be the only man that can beat Blaine.

A good many of the Democratic State conventions are declaring for Tilden, notwithstanding his declination. The sage of Gramercy ought to gratify their wish.

The Central Pacific R. R. laborers would like to have their pay. The finances of the company are in such a straitened condition that the employees of the company have been compelled to take sixty days' due bills for pay.

This is too bad. They are now trying to make Samuel J. Tilden out a foreigner. They say that he was born in England two years before he migrated to this country. The veracious chronicler does not say whether that was just previous to the election of 1876 or whether he came over with Columbus in 1492.

The last name for the immaculate better-than-you-are party that are too good to vote for Blaine but are going to vote for John Kelley, Smith Weed and Boss Manning's candidate, is the Salvation army, which seems to be a very appropriate name. They make about the same noise and do about as much good (or hurt) as the aforesaid body.

The prohibition party has nominated S. C. Pomeroy of Kansas, its candidate for the Presidency. Pomeroy was expelled from the Senate some years since for bribery. He being now, however, one of the truly-good, perhaps the Massachusetts bolters might be induced to take him up—Anything to beat Blaine, you know.

Ex-Governor Moses of South Carolina, has swindled Col. Higginson out of $43. But then, you know, they are both in the same party now supporting Democratic free trade with John Kelley, Smith M. Weed & Co., so the gallant colonel can afford to donate that towards the expenses of his colaborer.

Congressman Milliken says of the Massachusetts kickers that Henry L. Pierce, the first name on the list, is the man who wished to unseat the electoral commission in 1876 and seat Tilden and Hendricks, and the second name, Col. Codman, is that of a man who is agent of the Clyde shipbuilders, and who for a dozen years has been hostile to our navigation laws and in favor of free ships.

Senator Platt of Connecticut, says of Mr. Blaine, "I believe him to be a man of great sagacity and sound judgment. If elected, I believe he would invite into his cabinet the ablest and best men in the country and that he is much more likely to make a conservative than a radical President. Logan, while not so well known in the East as in the West, is popular with the soldiers, and all who remember his patriotic and gallant conduct in the war. He will grow on the people as an honest, able, straightforward man. It is too early to boast, but I believe Connecticut will give Blaine and Logan a majority."

The reports that come from all parts of the country in regard to the feeling towards the Republican ticket are very encouraging to every one who hopes to see the Republican principles triumph for another four years. The great West is solid. Iowa promises 50,000 majority, Illinois 30,000, Ohio 25,000 and Indiana 15,000. These are reports that come from men well informed in regard to affairs in those States, and men not given to enthusiastic boasting. The bolters themselves concede that the ticket will carry all the West and Northwest, that it will carry West Virginia and possibly North Carolina. But this class of political prophets claim that the opposition will carry New York and Massachusetts. Perhaps they will but we doubt it.

Alas how true: One of the immaculate New York papers which cannot stand the Republican platform is now plunged into the deepest mourning because the Democrats did not act to suit it. It says: "The evasive looking-all-ways, indefinite, absurd apology for a "platform" adopted by the Democrats at Saratoga, betrays the absence of the control of a strong, responsible and sagacious majority in the Convention. A more cowardly sneaking away from the open avowal of distinctly defined principles has not been known in many years. "Principles, not men" —used to be a grand old Democratic motto. In practice the motto was reversed at Saratoga. Are the Democrats fated to fail at every emergency when courage and common sense are most needed?"

Where, oh where can the unhappy would-be reformer turn next?

Geo. William Curtis' Reasons for Bolting.

The one man that is getting very little credit to himself by bolting, and who is bringing upon himself much well merited criticism, is Geo. William Curtis. Mr. Curtis went into the convention, took an active part in its proceedings, and because he and forty others who voted for Edmunds could not control the entire eight hundred, he comes out and labors to the best of his ability to defeat the legitimate nominees of the convention.

Mr. Curtis has said as commendatory things about Mr. Blaine as any other writer and these things are being constantly quoted much to the disgust of the writer, probably. In answer to the very commendatory article written in 1876, and which we published last week, Mr. Curtis now claims that the article was written before the celebrated Mulligan letters were made public. He claims that the investigation which begun in the summer of 1876 put an entirely different appearance upon Mr. Blaine's railroad transactions than what Mr. Blaine's statements would indicate, and that "the Mulligan letters was the other evidence, the absence of which made his refutation of the 25th of April thorough, but the subsequent appearance of which made his statement no refutation whatever." Admitting for the sake of argument that Mr. Curtis was convinced that Mr. Blaine is a dishonest and corrupt man, why does he continue to say good things about him in his paper even up to the time of his retirement from office as a member of Garfield's cabinet. Commenting favorably upon the selection of Mr. Blaine as the head of the cabinet, he says, "The election of Mr. Blaine for the State department shows that the President means to have a party behind him. * * * As Secretary of State his course will be regarded not only without prejudice, but with the most friendly anticipation. The administration begins with an admirable manifesto, and with a cabinet to which no part of the party objects." Again when Mr. Blaine retires from the cabinet, Mr. Curtis takes occasion to speak in warm terms of the "skill and ability with which Mr. Blaine has managed the department confided to him." In fact Harpers Weekly is full of words of praise for this same man, whom Mr. Curtis now pronounces too corrupt to hold office. Will Mr. Curtis tell us what new evidence he may have obtained since 1881?

The Republican National Committee organized in New York, Thursday, by the choice of E. F. Jones of Pennsylvania, chairman, and Samuel Fessenden of Connecticut, secretary. Mr. Jones is said to be one of the most successful men in the United States and stands at the head of the iron manufacturing interest. The chairman on accepting the nomination said of Mr. Blaine:

"It is my good fortune to have known Mr. Blaine intimately for over thirty years. I have watched his career during that time with unusual interest, and I have never known any one to be actuated by purer motives, or to be governed by a higher standard of morals. His lofty patriotism and splendid abilities are recognized and acknowledged everywhere. He is always on the American side of every question. These virtues and these accomplishments account for his wonderful magnetism, and for his nearness to the hearts of the American people."

Edward Everett Hale Not a Bolter.

HIS REASONS RESPECTFULLY REFERRED TO SOME OF HIS DENOMINATION IN THIS CITY.

He says, in the Independent: The situation as I understand it is this:

From 1861 to 1861 the National administration was generally in the hands of a compact Southern oligarchy which used the machinery of administration for its own purposes, and greatly to the injury of the Nation.

From 1861 to this time it has been in the hands of the Northern States. In this period have been made the greatest advances in the National history, and for the first time there has been a certain effort to make the government represent the principles on which we all say it is founded.

It now seems possible for the solid Southern oligarchy, by a combination with the voters of the worst wards of the city of New York, to regain the power they lost in 1861.

Many gentlemen, whom I highly respect, ask me and others who have voted with the Republican party to assist this combination. You ask me to. I do not think I shall—very much.

It must be remembered that the election of a Democratic President means the election of a Democratic Congress. Though he were an immaculate saint, as I believe it is proposed he shall be, he could do little to restrain the hunger of such a throng. For, very fortunately, the President with us has but little power when he is alone.

The election of a Republican President means the election of a Republican Congress. Such a Congress cannot do much harm; it may prevent a good deal. I am told that the election of a Democratic President is to be a step in Civil Service Reform. I do not see it. I believe Mr. Carlisle and the Democratic Convention are expected to promise this to the Independents of the North. So I remember that the forester, in "Æsop," promised his daughter to the lion if he would let him trim his claws. After the claws were trimmed, the forester knocked the lion in the head.

The objection urged to Mr. Blaine, in the journals edited by the Englishmen, is that his policy will be National or American. With my views of the politics of the world, this is not a serious objection.

I was afflicted with kidney disease, and suffered intensely. I was induced to try HUNT'S [Kidney and Liver] REMEDY, and before I had used two bottles I was entirely cured. Richmond Hoxshaw, Providence, R. I.

Bayard as a Secessionist.

The immaculates who are too high toned to vote for Blaine are loudly calling upon the Democratic party to nominate Senator Bayard of Delaware, so that they can have a man after their own heart to vote for. When Blaine was doing all he could to uphold the hands of President Lincoln in his struggle with rebellion and when Gen. Logan was bravely fighting for the Union, Senator Bayard, whom those extremely good people are now crying for, was making such speeches as the following:

"I believe solemnly that the war inaugurated by Abraham Lincoln and his Cabinet is worse than fruitless—that it will prove more disastrous to the North than to the South, and never will accomplish its professed objects. Already it has driven out of our Union four States, while others stand in doubt. When I take up the public papers and see the markets of the world disordered and depressed by the mere apprehension of this war; when I turn to our business circles and see men of wealth reduced to poverty, our merchants bankrupted, our mechanics and laboring men threatened with absolute starvation, I would fain hide my face in grief. But confronting this wide scene of human distress, I sadly seek to find relief from it. If war, or the mere prospect of it, has in three short months worked all this distress, what an increase of trouble are we to anticipate should it proceed in all its detail of oppressive taxation, destruction, demoralization and sorrow. Human governments were ordained for the happiness and protection of society. If peace will restore and secure these blessings to the people of the United States, even though a number of their former associates have gone off under a new and independent organization, in the name of heaven let us raise our voice for it. Shall this earnest cry for peace be stifled at the bidding of a host of fanatical and cowardly editors, aided by an army of greedy contractors and public leeches, stimulating an ignorant mob to denounce and attack us as traitors and secessionists? We know it shall not, and this day do we proclaim our duty to our country and our intention to perform it."

It Is No Wonder

that so many people sink into untimely graves when we consider how they neglect their health. They have a disordered Liver, deranged Bowels, Constipation, Piles or diseased Kidneys, but they let it go and think they "will get over it." It grows worse, other and more serious complications follow and soon it is too late to save them. If such people would take Kidney-Wort it would preserve their lives. It acts upon the most important organs purifying the blood and cleansing the system, removes and prevents these disorders and promotes health.

Casey, the last three being members of the Monument Association, was appointed for preliminary work and to take such steps as may be necessary during the summer and autumn. The committee will report to the commission in December. It is proposed to invite the Governors of all the States (who are ex-officio vice-presidents of the Monument Association), military and civic organizations and the public at large to take part in the ceremonies, the invitations to be issued next December. The dedication of the monument is to take place on the 22d of next February.

The Queen of England does not mean to get hurt. When she goes from Balmoral to Windsor Castle remarkable preparations and precautions are to be taken to avoid dynamite. A special train in which Her Majesty is to travel will be preceded throughout the journey by a pilot engine to see that the track is free of obstructions and to remove any that may be placed upon it. During the progress of the journey the public will be rigidly secluded from all stations along the line, and no assemblages will be permitted at any of the railway crossings, especially in the cities. All trains going in the direction opposite to the Queen's will come to a stop on the approach of the royal train, and will remain stationary until that train has passed to avoid possibility of a collision. To make the clearing of stations and interruptions of traffic as little burdensome to the public as possible, the Queen will make the journey at night, arriving at Windsor Castle in time for an early breakfast.

Gen. Logan, it is said, is an illiterate person, who cannot write a correct sentence, etc. Even in Newport that statement has been hurled broadcast. It will perhaps be well for these people to look into the facts in the case before they make so bold with their statements. A historian says of him: He fought his own way bravely through college with what help a hard working father in a pioneer country could give his several sons; was graduated honorably, studied law awhile with his uncle, and then was graduated from the regular law-school. Perhaps his English may sometimes betray traces of the pioneer habits of a third of a century ago in Southern Illinois. He speaks the French and Spanish languages, is an enthusiast in Shakespeare, of which he can repeat whole plays by heart. He has been known among his brother Senators to correct a Harvard graduate in Latin pronunciation and a Williams graduate in Shakspercan quotation, and his familiar acquaintance with modern tongues is reported to have stood in the breach where other Senators faltered and fell.

Poisoned Ice Cream.

COOL BLUFFS, Penn., June 25—A party of eleven, consisting of Wm. Conlin, his wife and child, Joseph Conlin, Mrs. Wilson and her three children, Thomas Williams, Robert Cook and a colored man, were taken violently ill Saturday after eating ice cream. One of Mrs. Wilson's children died yesterday, and to-night one of the men died. Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Conlin are not expected to live, and the children are very low. It is supposed the cream was poisoned from the vanilla flavoring.

Several Persons Killed During a Terrific Thunderstorm.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 25.—A terrific thunderstorm passed over Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio yesterday, damaging property and killing several persons and a large amount of live stock. At Murrayville, Pa., a boy named Wolf and four horses were instantly killed. A brother of the boy was badly burned. At Waynesburg, Pa., Miss Josie Keener and Wm. Paver were seriously injured and three horses killed. At Salem, Ohio, Miss Minnie Meelpha, aged 16 years, was killed instantly. At Youngstown, O., lightning struck the residence of Abner Meadeker, killing his daughter Minnie, and seriously injuring several other members of the family. At Newcomerstown the storm was accompanied by a furious tornado, which uprooted trees, blew down fences, and did great damage to grain.

The Cholera in France.

MARSEILLES, June 25.—The chateau here which formerly belonged to the ex-Empress Eugenie is being prepared for the accommodation of 500 cholera patients.

When lips receive a rosy flush,
And teeth become a dazzling white,
Beneath the efforts of the brush,
When SOZODONT is used aright;
The mouth becomes sweet, pure and warm,
And the fresh breath an odorous charm.

Newport, R. I., June 23d, 1884. 6-26

Clerk's Office of the Court of Probate of the City of Newport, in Rhode Island, June 25th, A. D. 1884.

ELLEN BURKINSHAW having this day filed in this office her petition in writing to said Court of Probate, praying that a certain instrument in writing, presented therewith purporting to be the last will and testament with codicil thereto, of
JOHN BURKINSHAW,
late of Newport, deceased, may be proved, approved, allowed and recorded, and that letters testamentary may be issued to her the executrix named therein, and said petitioner having applied to me to give notice thereof by advertising in the Newport Mercury,

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested, that said petition will be considered at the Court of Probate to be holden on the 14th day of July, A. D. 1884, at 10 o'clock, A. M., at the Probate Office in the City Hall in said Newport.

ALEX. N. BARKER, Probate Clerk.

Court of Probate, City of Newport, June 23, 1884.

THE COMMISSIONERS heretofore appointed to receive and examine the claims of the creditors on the estate of SARAH JOHNSON,
late of Newport, deceased, represented Insolvent, present their report.

It is ordered that the consideration of said report be referred to Monday, the 14th day of July, 1884, at 10 o'clock, A. M., at the Probate Office, in the City Hall, Newport, and that notice thereof be given to all persons interested, by publishing a copy of this decree in the Newport Mercury, once a week at least, for fourteen days.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Weeds in Clover.

There are some kinds of weeds whose presence in clover fields is presumptive evidence of bad management. Sorrel is one of these. The fields that are red with this pest now have probably been heavily pastured the previous season, or were so sterile in places that the clover seed either did not grow or the plant had too little vigor to maintain its supremacy against weeds. On rich, well-cultivated soil, clover will usually keep all weeds under, at least to such an extent that what scattering weeds remain may be destroyed by hand pulling.

Manure under the Hogpen.

If there is a wooden floor to the hogpen, no matter how high it is made, there will every year be a considerable amount of valuable manure find its way through. Even the earth under the floor, to the depth of 6 or 8 inches, will make a good fertilizer. A hogpen floor should be laid with the purpose of taking up every second year, and it will generally need it if made of soft lumber.

Shade for Young Grass.

Recently a farmer who had plowed up a fence row relaid the fence after seeding with timothy and clover. It was a rail fence, laid worm fashion, and under the rails where the heat of the sun was shaded, the grass was vigorous, and at least three times as large and thick as it was where no shade was had. This burning up of the plants by heat, perhaps, explains some failures in growing grass seed without grain.

Potato Beetles.

There is no use in applying Paris green to potato vines early so as to poison the beetles before they lay their eggs. Few will eat at this stage, and the work of egg laying will go on without interruption. Neither is it advisable to let them alone. If the mature beetles are not hand-picked the larva will do much damage to vines before the poison takes effect. The larva always appear in swarms when the hot weather comes.

Potatoes in Hills.

With hills three feet apart each way, one bushel of merchantable potatoes should give a yield of 162 bushels per acre. This is much more than the average yield in the country, by which we may see how unnecessarily large is the area on which this important crop is grown. Good potatoes, well cared for, should yield a bushel to twelve hills. We have in single hills grown at the rate of a bushel to every six hills, or more than 800 bushels per acre.

Wet Places in Fields.

Some of the greatest advantages of underdraining are found in putting tiles in fields that in most places are dry enough already. In a wet time plowing, cultivating or other work on the entire field is suspended until these places get into condition to work. The loss from this is most noticeable in hoed crops, as corn or potatoes, where weeds get the advantage and double or treble the labor of after cultivation. With a field dry in parts this evil may be avoided.

Shade for Bees.

Bees love high temperatures, but in mid-summer the combined heat of the sun and their own warmth is too much for them, as is shown by their gathering on the outside of the hives. But it is only at midday that this heat is too great. Mornings and most nights it is just right. Hence dense shade all the day long does more harm than good. A projecting board to protect from the midday sun, leaving the hive exposed mornings and afternoons, is the best kind of shade.

Green Manuring.

The practice of plowing under green crops for manure is coming into fashion again, with the difference that now the crops are not as formerly plowed in to grow wheat. That ceased to pay with Western competition causing low prices for this grain. But some grain crops plowed under for potatoes or other hoed crops enrich the soil more than it can be by an equal expenditure of labor or money. The green manure is more evenly distributed over the field than an equal bulk could be in any other way.

Weeds around Fences.

The last refuge of weeds on a farm is around fences. The perennials, like quack grass and Canada thistle, hold their own here because their roots extend beyond the reach of the plow. Some pests like redroot and charlock are more plentiful around fences, because when hand gathering is practised the weeds are thrown in fence corners, where a part of them ripen their seeds. The best way to clear a fence row of weeds, is, if possible, to take away the fence, cultivate in some hoed crop and reseed with grass.

Summer Fallows.

The increase of weeds, which rob the soil and injure the crop, is reviving in some places what had become the nearly obsolete practice of summer fallowing for winter wheat. It is however, a wasteful method, for it requires the fertility developed by two years of thorough cultivation to make one crop. It is, however, less wasteful than growing weeds, and if the land is well seeded when cleared it is permissible in some cases. The best farmers will, however, prefer to clean their land while in hoed crops, which will utilize some of the fertility that would otherwise be wasted.

Double Rows for Fodder Corn.

The practice of growing fodder corn by sowing broadcast or drilling thickly through all the tubes has gone into disfavor. The fodder so grown is watery, difficult to cure and not as nutritious as where air and sunlight reach it. Probably the best way to grow it, either for soiling or ensilage, is to drill in double rows, running the corn through two tubes seven inches apart, with a width of thirty-five inches between these double rows to allow room for cultivation. A great weight of nutritious feed can thus be grown on the acre. The drill will sow two double rows at a time, and with a little calculation the outside drill marks in going across the field will guide the driver so that he can make straight rows without previous marking.

Thorough Grooming.

Don't think you have properly groomed your horse when you have succeeded in scraping the dirt off so that your neighbor cannot see it across the field and laugh at it. Too many curry their horses merely because others might make fun of them if they did not make a little pretension toward keeping them clean, and were they sure no one would see them they would never use the comb or brush. They forget or never knew that while cleanliness is one of the objects of grooming, it is not the only or greatest one—The entire system of the horse is much affected by the amount of rubbing it receives and the condition its skin is kept in. A beautiful coat of hair adds greatly to the value of a horse, and no one will doubt for a moment that grooming materially affects this part at least.

An Admirable Prescription.

At this season of the year a lemon is worth untold gold as a health preserver. The way to get the better of a bilious system without blue pills or quinine is to take the juice of two or three lemons in just enough water to make it pleasant to drink without sugar, before going to bed. In the morning, before breakfast, repeat the dose. —[Atlanta Constitution.

A writer in the British Medical "Journal," says: "The best remedy for cramp—the simplest and the most efficacious that I know of—is a band of cork. It is easily made by cutting a small new wine cork into thin slices, which must be sewn close together upon ribbon or tape an inch wide. It can be tied around any part affected and worn during the night.

Recipes for the Table.

FRENCH VEGETABLE SOUP.—To a leg of lamb of moderate size take four quarts of water. Of carrots, potatoes, onions, tomatoes, cabbage and turnips take a teacup of each, chopped fine; pepper and salt to taste. Boil the lamb in the water, and when cold skim off the fat from the top. The next day add the vegetables and boil until thoroughly done.

STOCK FOR SOUP.—Have a large kettle on the back of the stove; put in lean beef, either cooked or raw, in the proportion of one pound of beef to one quart of water; add pork rinds with all the fat taken off. Let this cook slowly for two or three days. When cold skim off all the fat and put it in another vessel. By adding either barley, rice, sago, vermicelli or macaroni for thickening, this stock may be used for any soup requiring meat broth.

BREAKFAST DISH.—Chop fine as much cold beef or mutton as is required to which add enough soup stock to cover; season with pepper, salt and ground cloves; thicken with brown flour, and pour boiling hot water over little bits of toasted bread; garnish with very thin slices of lemon, and serve at once.

TRAVELING LUNCH.—Sardines, ham and a little pickle, chopped fine and mixed with a sufficient quantity of mustard, pepper, catsup, salt and vinegar, and spread between slices of nicely buttered bread, makes an excellent cold lunch.

POTATO CAKES.—Two pounds of mashed potatoes, four ounces of butter and a little salt, two pounds of flour, and milk enough to make a butter; one-half cup of yeast; set to rise, and when light bake in cakes the size of muffins.

FROZEN DISHES — VANILLA ICE CREAM. — Half gallon fresh milk or cream, one pound of A sugar, twelve eggs and half of a vanilla bean. Put the milk, sugar and bean (which you must split) on the fire, break your eggs in a round, bottomed vessel and beat them light with a wire whip; as soon as the milk and sugar come to a boil, stir them in the eggs and return them to the fire and let them boil again; then strain into a freezing can and finish in the usual manner.

SIMPLE SYRUP FOR WATER, ETC.—To every two pounds of granulated sugar, put one pint of clear water; set on the fire until the grain is dissolved; do not let the sugar boil more than one minute, then put it in a jug for future use.

RASPBERRY ICE.—Take one and one-half pints of raspberry juice, one pint of simple syrup, a gill of red currant juice, or the juice of half a lemon; mix and freeze.

CHERRY ICE.—Wash and scald three pounds of red cherries, strain and press through a hair sieve to extract the juice, of which take one and one-half pints and mix with one pint simple syrup and the juice of half a lemon; strain and freeze.

LEMON ICE.—Extract the juice of twelve lemons, infuse the yellow rind of three for one hour in one pint of warm simple syrup, mix with the juice and freeze. Beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff snow and stir in it lightly six ounces of fine pulverized sugar: add this to the frozen ice, stirring it in well.

Fashion Fancies.

Small bustles only, are worn.

Duisies are the popular flowers.

Chatelaine watches are out of style

Chatelaine bags are coming in again.

White lilacs are popularly worn by brides.

Turkish embroidery is used on ginghams.

Pale brown and gray are the fashionable colors for dresses.

Feather fans for dressy occasions will be much used this summer.

Escurial lace is extensively used in the trimming of white dresses.

Dotted muil trims many of the rough and ready hats for summer wear.

Red is exceedingly popular. Bits of it are seen on almost every costume.

Clover blossoms are much worn on bonnets of either white or black straw.

Cuffs are very narrow. They are worn with small stud-buttons of hammered silver.

Ginghams are fashionable for morning wear, trimmed with quantities of embroidery.

Silk gloves in pretty tan shades are worn to the exclusion of kid and undressed kid gloves.

Some of the newest straw hats have broad brims and high crowns and are worn down on the forehead.

Dotted muslins trimmed with oriental lace will be used for both morning and evening dresses during the season.

Broad bands of velvet are worn around the neck with thin dresses. Pale blue and crimson are the fashionable colors.

Some of the newest bonnets for every day wear have strings of white mull, which are fastened beneath the chin in a bow.

Bonnets for both morning and evening wear are small. Gold and silver tinsel is not as much used upon them as formerly.

For traveling, tailor-made gowns will be exclusively worn. Gray in several shades and dark blue are the most popular colors.

Handkerchiefs made of fine white lawn with pretty and artistic borders are fashionable. They are now never worn stuck in the belt or bosom.

The hair is now never seen coiled in a knot at the back of the head. It is brushed up and carelessly knotted on the top of the head, and is worn without ornament of any kind.

The fashionable engagement ring is no longer the single diamond splendidly set. It has a row of small sapphires extending one-half way round and on the other side a row of small diamonds. The sapphires are for good luck and the diamonds mean undying affection.

PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Blind, bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching, and affecting a permanent cure, where all other remedies have failed. Do not delay until the drain on the system produces permanent disability, but try it and be cured. Price 50 cents. Sent prepaid on receipt of price. Address, The Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, Ohio. Sold by John E. Groff, agent, and B. F. Downing, Jr.

Athlophoros

ATHLOPHOROS is a novel word to most people who speak the English language. The Greeks used it centuries ago, meaning by it "THE PRIZE-BEARER."

ATHLOPHOROS is the first and only medicine which has carried off the prize as the perfect remedy for Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

Like two relentless tyrants they have for ages held their suffering victims in an iron grip. Those poor sufferers have been as slaves in the power of their oppressors.

ATHLOPHOROS has entered the arena, engaged in conflict with these monsters, and won the victory. As the competitors in the Grecian games of old could win only by the most severe trials of ability and endurance, so ATHLOPHOROS has won the prize, not alone by giving temporary relief, but by bringing an enduring cure, as well, to those who have suffered the excruciating agonies of Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

ATHLOPHOROS is a novelty, not only in name, but in its elements. It is unlike any preparation yet introduced.

ATHLOPHOROS acts on the blood, muscles and joints, removing the poison and acid from the blood, carries them out of the system.

ATHLOPHOROS is put up with consummate skill, and contains nothing that can possibly harm the most delicate constitution.

Now, do you want to suffer on and on? or do you want to be well?

"Athlophoros" WILL Cure You

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS

Dr. Lewis is always successful.

The Glory of a Man is in his Strength,

Nerve or Physical Force when Lost Quickly Regained by Consulting

Dr. C. J. Lewis,

WHO, after intense study and deep research, has lately discovered a new, extraordinary, quick, certain and inexpensive cure for diseases of the Brain and Spinal Cord, Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness, Fluid Escapes, Impotency, and Deranged Functions of the Nervous and Generative Systems. THIS NEW and MARVELLOUS MEDICAL TREATMENT has cured the most desperate forms of Nervous disorders in both young and old. To debilitated youth it bestows the vigor of manhood, and in advanced age it establishes the vigor of youth without the possibility of failure. URINARY COMPLAINTS, Acute or Chronic Discharges, Stricture, Retention of Urine, Gravel, Kidney or Bladder Disorders. Syphilis, Secondary Symptoms, Eruptions, Skin Diseases, are all absolutely cured without the use of mercury, copiva or injections. No restriction in diet or hindrance from business. RECENT CASES CURED IN THREE OR FOUR DAYS. Patients whose cases have been neglected, badly treated, or pronounced incurable, are particularly invited to visit Dr. Lewis. A written guarantee of cure given in all cases undertaken. In practice 30 years.

Dr. Lewis is frequently consulted by many who have been completely discouraged of ever being cured after having experimented with various advertised nostrums, which invariably do more harm than good as every phase of disease demands different and special treatment. To those who may have been disappointed, Dr. Lewis would say consult him and he will restore the disappointed one to all the duties of life, whether they be physical or mental, pertaining to married life or "single blessedness."

CONSULTATIONS, MEDICINES, &c., $5. WORKING CLASSES, $2.50.

DR. LEWIS is permanently located at 120 Friendship Street Providence, R. I., One door from Richmond street (off Broad street). Office hours from 9 to 2 and 5 to 9; SUNDAYS, 10 to 2, not later except by appointment, letter or telegram.

Rheumatism Effectually Cured. Female Complaints Skillfully Treated.

Notice to Country Patients.

DR. LEWIS will, on full description of case; with fee enclosed, immediately send a supply of his valuable medicines, accompanied with instructions and advice, for the cure of the above distressing complaints. 4-29tf

NEW HAVEN, August 12, 1882.

MESSRS. LEWIS & CO.,

Gentlemen:—You ask me what effect Lewis' "Red Jacket Bitters" has had in my case. In answer will say, that for the past eighteen months I have been chock full of malaria, as you well know. I have employed different physicians without avail, and was taking from fifteen to eighteen grains of quinine daily when I began the use of "Red Jacket Bitters." I have now used four bottles of the Bitters, and am for the first time in eighteen months strong and well. They are worth their weight in gold.

Yours truly,

E. J. RAYMOND.

PUBLIC LAWS OF RHODE ISLAND

PASSED AT THE JANUARY SESSION.

CHAPTER 482.

AN ACT relating to foreign insurance companies.

(Passed May 2, 1884.)

It is enacted by the [General Assembly as follows:

SECTION 1. No insurance company, unless incorporated by the General Assembly, shall make any insurance on property within this State or contract for insurance with any party resident therein, until such insurance company shall have complied with the provisions of this act.

SEC. 2. No insurance company not incorporated under the authority of this State, shall directly or indirectly issue policies, take risks, or transact business in this State, until it shall have first appointed in writing the Insurance Commissioner of this State, to be the true and lawful attorney of such company in and for this State, upon whom all lawful process in any action or proceeding against the company, may be served with the same effect as if the company existed in this State. Said power of attorney shall stipulate and agree on the part of the company that any lawful process against the company which is served on said attorney shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served on the company, and that the authority shall continue in force so long as any liability remains outstanding against the company in this State. A certificate of such appointment, duly certified and authenticated, shall be filed in the office of the Insurance Commissioner, and copies certified by him shall be received in evidence in all the Courts in this State. Service upon such attorney shall be deemed sufficient service upon the principal.

SEC. 3. Whenever lawful process against an insurance company shall be served upon the Insurance Commissioner he shall forthwith forward a copy of the process served on him, by mail, postpaid, and directed to the Secretary of the company, or in case of companies of foreign countries, to the resident manager, if any, in this country. For each copy of process the commissioner shall collect the sum of two dollars, which shall be paid by the plaintiff at the time of such service, the same to be recovered by him as part of the taxable costs, if he prevails in the suit.

SEC. 4. This act shall not affect any liability already incurred under the attorneyships now existing, or the remedies for recovering or enforcing the same.

SEC. 5. No person shall act as agent of any insurance company, not incorporated under the authority of the State, in making any contract of insurance with any person in this State, unless the capital stock of the company for which he acts amounts to the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, actually paid in in money and invested exclusively of any obligations of the stockholders of any description, nor unless such other company, if other than a life insurance company, shall be restricted by its charter or otherwise, so that it cannot lawfully incur in any one risk a greater hazard than one-tenth part of the amount of its capital.

SEC. 6. No person shall act within this State as agent or otherwise in procuring or securing applications for insurance upon the life, health or safety of any person, or in any manner aid in transacting the business of such life, health or safety insurance for any company or association incorporated by or organized under the laws of any other State or government, unless such company, if a stock company, is possessed of one hundred thousand dollars capital, or if a mutual company, of assets to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars, and the same is invested in stocks created by the laws of the United States, or by or under the laws of the State in which such company is located, or in other safe stocks or securities, the market value of which, at the time of such deposit, shall be at or above par, which investments are deposited with the auditor, comptroller, or chief financial officer aforesaid, under his hand and official seal, that he, as such auditor, comptroller, or chief financial officer of such State, holds in trust and on deposit for the benefit of all policy holders of such company, the security before mentioned; which certificates shall embrace the items of security so held, and shall state that he is satisfied that such securities are worth one hundred thousand dollars.

SEC. 7. Every person who acts or aids in any manner in negotiating contracts of insurance or re-insurance, or placing risks; or effecting insurance or re-insurance for any person other than himself, and receiving compensation therefor; and every person who shall so far represent any insurance company, established in any other State or country, as to receive or transmit proposals for insurance, or to receive for delivery policies founded on proposals forwarded from this State, or otherwise to procure insurance to be effected by such company for persons residing in this State, or otherwise to procure insurance to be effected by such company for persons residing in this State, shall be deemed and taken to be acting as agent for and undertaking to make insurance as agent for and in behalf of such company, and shall be subject to the restrictions and liable to the penalties herein made applicable to agents of such companies.

SEC. 8. Every such agent before making any such contract of insurance as aforesaid, shall deposit with the Insurance Commissioner a copy of the charter of the company or corporation for which he is agent as aforesaid.

SEC. 9. Every such agent shall also, before making any contract of insurance as aforesaid, deposit with the Insurance Commissioner a statement, signed and sworn to by the President and Secretary of the company for which he acts, specifying if such company is a fire, marine, or fire and marine, life, health, accident or other insurance company; stating the amount of its capital and the manner of its investment, designating the amount invested respectively in mortgages, in public securities, in the stock of incorporated companies, stating what companies, and also the amount invested in other securities, particularizing each item of investment, the amount of marine risks not terminated and the premium paid thereon, the amount of fire risks not terminated and the premium paid thereon, the amount of liabilities, specifying therein the amount of outstanding claims adjusted or unadjusted, due or not due, and in case said company is incorporated on the mutual principle, such statement shall set forth, in addition to the foregoing the amount of risks insured by the same, the amount of premium thereon, what portion of it has been paid in cash, what security has been taken for the remainder, and what is the largest sum insured in any one risk; and the statement herein required to be made, so far as applicable, shall be made of each class in companies authorized to take risks in classes, and in all cases the returns may be varied by the Commissioner to obtain more definite information of such company.

SEC. 10. If the company for which such agent acts is a life insurance company, health insurance company or live stock or other insurance company, co-operative or as assessment, such agent shall also, before making any contract of insurance as aforesaid, deposit with the Insurance Commissioner a statement signed and sworn to by the President and Secretary of the company for which he acts, specifying the amount of its capital and all its assets and the manner of its investments, designating the amount invested respectively in mortgages, in public securities, in stock of incorporated companies, stating what companies; and also the amount invested in other securities, particularizing each item of investment, the amount insured by existing policies, the amount of liabilities, specifying therein the amount of out standing claims, adjusted or unadjusted, due or not due, and the largest sum insured in any one risk.

SEC. 11. The Insurance Commissioner may inquire of any life, fire, marine, or fire and marine, or other insurance company of whatever name or kind, doing business in this State, or its secretary, in relation to its financial condition and management, and such inquiry shall be promptly answered.

SEC. 12. Every insurance company of whatever name or kind, doing business in this State, shall annually in the month of January deposit with the Insurance Commissioner a statement, signed and sworn to by its President and Secretary, of its exact condition and standing on the thirty-first day of December next preceding, specifying if such company is a fire, marine, or fire and marine, life, health, accident or other insurance company, stating the amount of its capital and the manner of its investment, designating the amount invested respectively in mortgages, in public securities, in the stock of incorporated companies, stating what companies, particularizing each item of investment, the amount of marine risks not terminated, and the premium paid thereon; the amount of fire risks not terminated, and the premium paid thereon; the amount of liabilities, specifying therein the amount of outstanding claims, adjusted or unadjusted, due or not due, and in case said company is incorporated on the mutual principle, such statement shall set forth, in addition to the foregoing, the amount of risks insured by the same, the amount of premium thereon, what portion of it has been paid in cash, what security has been taken for the remainder, and what is the largest sum insured in any one risk; and the statement herein required to be made, so far as applicable, shall be made of each class in companies authorized to take risks in classes, and in all cases the returns may be varied by the Commissioner to obtain more definite information of such company.

SEC. 13. The Insurance Commissioner shall annually, in the month of February, publish for distribution an abstract of the statements filed in his office by fire and fire and marine insurance companies, as required by section twelve of this act, and the expense of publishing and distributing said abstracts shall be paid by such insurance companies. An abstract, to be approved by the Insurance Commissioner, of the statements of other insurance companies of whatever name or kind, deposited in said office, as required by section twelve of this act, shall annually in the month of March be published by the agent or agents of the respective companies, once in each of three successive weeks in some newspaper printed in the county where such agent has his place of business.

SEC. 14. If any insurance company, co-operative or otherwise, shall make insurance without complying with the provisions of this act, the contract shall be valid, but every person acting within this State as agent of such company within the meaning of section seven of this act, respecting the effecting of any insurance, shall be fined not less than three hundred dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars.

SEC 15. No person shall act as agent of any insurance company until such company and such agent shall have complied with all the requirements of the laws of this State relating to such companies and their agents, and every person so acting without such compliance shall be fined one thousand dollars.

SEC. 16. The Insurance Commissioner shall annually examine the statements and returns required to be made by the companies and agents as aforesaid, and if in his opinion any return shall be obscure, defective or unsatisfactory, he shall immediately require answers under oath from the agent or company by whom such obscure, defective or unsatisfactory return shall have been made to such interrogatories as he may deem necessary, or proper to be answered in order to explain such return, and exhibit a full and accurate view of the business and resources of the company represented by such agent.

SEC. 17. Every agent who shall refuse or neglect to answer such interrogatories for the space of thirty days, and continue to act as agent as aforesaid, shall be liable to the penalty prescribed in section fifteen of this act.

SEC 18. The Insurance Commissioner shall prepare an abstract of the statements and returns made by such companies and their agents, which abstracts shall be printed and laid before the General Assembly in each year.

SEC. 19. No agent of any foreign insurance company doing business in any town in this State shall be allowed to establish any branch agency in any other town in the State.

SEC. 20. The Insurance Commissioner, either personally or by a committee appointed by him, consisting of one or more persons not directors, officers or agents of any life, fire, marine, or fire and marine insurance company, doing business in this State, may at any time examine into the affairs of any life, fire, marine, fire and marine, casualty or any other insurance company incorporated by or doing business in this State. The officers or agents of such company shall exhibit its books to said commissioner or committee, and otherwise facilitate such examination, and the commissioner or committee may examine, under oath the officers and agents of any such company in relation to its affairs; and said commissioner shall, if he deems it for the best so to do, publish the result of such investigation in one or more newspapers published in the State. Whenever it shall appear to the Insurance Commissioner, from the statements, or from an examination of the affairs of any life, fire, marine, fire and marine, casualty or other insurance company, not incorporated under the authority of this State, that such company is insolvent, or is conducting its business fraudulently, or refuses or neglects to comply with the laws of the State relating to insurance companies, it shall be the duty of said commissioner to revoke the certificate of authority issued to the agent or agents of any such company, and shall cause notice thereof to be published in one or more newspapers published in this State, and the agent or agents of such company are after such notice required to discontinue the issuing of new policies. All the expenses of no examination made under the provisions of this section shall be approved by and paid to the commissioner by the company examined.

SEC. 21. The Insurance Commissioner shall report to the Attorney General any violation of the provisions of this act which shall come to his knowledge, and the Attorney General shall institute the proper legal proceedings, in the name of the State, against any person violating any such provision.

SEC. 22. Every insurance company not incorporated in this State applying for admission to transact business therein, shall pay to the Insurance Commissioner for the use of the State for filing copy of its charter or deed of settlement the sum of thirty dollars, for filing statement preliminary to admission, and for filing each annual statement after admission the sum of twenty dollars, and for each agent's certificate annually the sum of two dollars.

SEC. 23. Chapter 157 of the Public Statutes is hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect upon its passage.

I certify the foregoing to be a true copy.

No remedy for Rheumatism and Neuralgia ever came before the public so well vindicated by previous experiments and so fortified by influential names as Athlophoros. Rev. E. N. Seelye, Agent of Board of Charities, New Haven, Conn., writes: "Am glad to certify that Athlophoros cured my wife of Rheumatism when all other remedies failed. She has taken but one bottle to effect a permanent cure."

A Government Sheriff.

Mr. Edward L. Green, Sheriff, Auckland, New Zealand, writes: "I received an injury to my shoulder in June, 1882, and from that date until July, 1883, I could not use my arm. I applied to medical men and used all sorts of liniment, without any benefit. I have great pleasure in stating I had occasion to use St. Jacobs Oil for it, and I had not used it more than ten minutes before I felt the beneficial effect, and I can work with my saw or spade as well as ever I did, and recommend it to any one suffering pain.

Always in haste—The letter h.

HAY-FEVER is a type of catarrh having peculiar symptoms. It is attended by an inflamed condition of the lining membrane of the nostrils, tear-ducts and throat, affecting the lungs. An acrid mucus is secreted, the discharge is accompanied with a burning sensation. There are severe spasms of sneezing, frequent attacks of headache, watery and inflamed eyes. Ely's Cream Balm is a remedy founded on a correct diagnosis of this disease and can be depended upon. 60 cts. at druggists; 60 cts. by mail. Sample bottle by mail 10 cts. A guilt frame—The prison window.

A well-known preacher makes the recommendation of Ayer's Pills a matter of religious duty. When people are bilious and dyspeptic, what they need is the Gospel of Health. In such cases, the best creed to swallow consists of the thirty sugar-coated articles in a pill-box.

The most precious canine is a diamond setter.

Postmaster Sam'l A. Howitt,

Of Monterey, Mich., delivers himself in this wise: "For colds, burns, sore throat, and rheumatism, Thomas' Eclectric Oil cannot be beaten. I say keep it up to the standard, and it will satisfy the people. I shall send for a new supply soon."

Show your colors, but don't show them on your nose.

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient.

A Sufferer from Headache writes:

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the safest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers.

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro.," Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable.

J. T. HAYES."

Moxia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

The REV. FRANCIS D. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

Fiske Fund

THE Trustees of the Fiske Fund, at the annual meeting of the Rhode Island Medical Society, held at Providence, June 19, 1884, announced that they had awarded the premium of three hundred dollars for the best dissertation on "The Origin and Progress of the Malarial Fever Now Prevalent in New England" to a dissertation bearing this motto:

"Mischief that may be helped is hard to know,
"And danger going on still multiplies";

and on breaking the seal of the accompanying packet, they found the author to be C. V. Chapin, M. D., of Providence.

On the other subject proposed for the year 1884 they make no award.

They propose the following subjects for 1885:

I. Original investigations in Household Hygiene.

II. The Present State of the Germ-Theory of Disease.

III. Physiological and Pathological Effects of the Use of Tobacco.

IV. Migraine; its Nature and Treatment.

For the best dissertation on either subject, worthy of a premium, they offer the sum of two hundred dollars.

Every competitor for a premium is expected to conform to the following regulations, viz.:

To forward to the Secretary of the Trustees, on or before the first day of May, 1885, free of all expense, a copy of his dissertation, with a motto written thereon, and also accompanying it a sealed packet, having the same motto inscribed upon the outside, and his name and place of residence within.

Previously to receiving the premium awarded, the author of the successful dissertation must transfer to the Trustees all his right, title and interest in and to the same, for the use, benefit and behoof of the Fiske Fund.

Letters accompanying the unsuccessful dissertations will be destroyed by the Trustees, unopened; and the dissertations may be procured by their respective authors, if application be made therefor within three months.

NEWPORT COUNTY NEWS.

MIDDLETOWN.

Another fine day greeted the inhabitants of our town of Sunday the 22d inst. Services were held at the Four Corners by the W. C. T. U. Temperance Society during the afternoon and evening, both services were largely attended by the people of this locality. The evening service was very interesting, to a full house. An address by Mrs. Burlingame, the Grand Secretary of the State organization. This meeting was conducted by Mrs. Chase, the president of the society of Middletown, who introduced the speaker of the evening. After the address by the Grand Secretary. Prayer was offered by the Pastor of the Church the Rev. W. A. Wright, who later in the evening, delivered some very interesting remarks upon Temperance. A collection was taken for the order and a paper passed among the congregation for signatures, to become members of the Order, which was numerously signed. The singing was a notible feature in the service.

During the services of the afternoon wood was received at the church of the death of one of the attendants of this church. Mr. Aaron S. Coggeshall who has been confined at his house for months, a great sufferer, he was well known in this town having carried on the Butchering business for years. His death has been looked for, for weeks as he has been near its door many times. He was sixty-three years of age, leaves three sons and one daughter besides his widow to mourn his loss. His funeral services took place on Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist Church. The funeral sermon was preached by the Pastor. The remains were interred in the cemetery near by, and were followed to the grave by the entire congregation. A very large attendance present, among whom were many friends and business men of Newport, the bearers were his three sons and Brother Robert Coggeshall of Newport.

There was quite a large meeting held in this town on Sunday, but not strictly a Temperance Meeting, but a chowder party from the city which it is reported by the town authorities did some damage to fences, besides disturbing the quietness of this locality, and in the future such parties will be forbidden by the offices of the town, on Sundays.

During the summer the people of this town have been badly imposed upon by a female tramp, who goes from house to house begging money for her poor fatherless children. It has been ascertained that the money is spent for Rum and that the woman is an imposter, who with other tramps are located, or have been of late—on the west side of the island, in some old house, and daily travel among the farmers, insulting those who do not give, and enjoying glorious sprees over the amounts received from others. It is full time our authorities took some notice of these daily occurances.

PORTSMOUTH.

JOTTINGS.—On Saturday the 21st inst., the mercury reached its maximum, 99 in the shade.

Mr. Charles G. Thomas has commenced to market new potatoes, and they are of good size and handsome. Mr. Thomas usually takes the lead in early potatoes.

Some of our farmers have commenced mowing, but the hay crop is not promising to be a very heavy one.

On Wednesday evening the long looked for rain came and continued through the night, and until Thursday, P. M., this being the heaviest rainfall for many weeks.

The Rev. Dr. T. A. Eaton, of New York is expected to be at St. Mary's tomorrow morning.

BLOCK ISLAND.

INSTALLATION.—At a meeting of Tuckisha Lodge, I. O. of G. T., Tuesday evening, the following officers were installed for the ensuing year:

W. C. T.—H. C. Littlefield.
W. V. T.—Mrs. A. R. Mitchell.
W. S.—Miss M. I. Durfee.
W. M.—S. E. Littlefield.
W. D. M.—Mrs. Jane Rose.
W. C.—Mrs. M. A. Stafford.
W. T.—F. J. Massard.
W. F. S.—Mrs. M. C. Littlefield.
W. I. G.—Miss Nora Dalton.
W. O. G.—Robert Hall.
G. L. D.—F. J. Massard was acting W. G. L. D.

Notice was given that meetings would be held every Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, during the summer, and invitations to attend these meetings were cordially extended to members of sister lodges.

ITEMS.—All the churches here held temperance services Sunday. Mr. Consus of Providence addressed the Centre Church in the morning and the West side church in the evening. The attendance at these meetings was large.

One thousand pounds of sword fish were put on board the Geo. W. Danielson Monday, billed for Newport.

The Rev. C. Braithwaite has returned from Mystic River, Conn., where he was attending the conference last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ball returned from their wedding tour last Saturday.

Among the season arrivals at the Ocean View Hotel are Dr. D. W. Peterson and family of New York, Miss M. L. Hotchkins of Lenox, Mass., Judge G. P. Howes and wife of New York, Wm. B. Earle of Brooklyn, G. C. Edwards of Bridgeport, Conn., C. F. Cooper of Providence, Judge M. Howland and family of Washington, H. D. Steers and Miss Steers of New York, W. B. Wightman and family of Providence.

TIVERTON.

FISHING NOTES.—Arrived at Narragansett Oil Works, Friday night, steamer Joseph Church, Geo. L. Church, captain, laden with 802 barrels menhaden fish; steamer Seven Brothers, Edward P. Macomber, captain, with 134 barrels; and schooner Antelope, Jacob Gifford, captain, with 163 barrels, making a total of 599 barrels of fish landed Friday. Steamer Seaconnet, George F. Nickerson, captain, reports 2600 barrels caught the last week, and steamer Fearless, John Brownell, captain, owned by Wm. J. Brightman & Co., reports 1600 barrels caught in the same length of time. Steamer A. M. Hathaway, owned by Messrs. Church Brothers, Captain Daniel Mason, finished discharging a cargo of mackerel in New York, Friday, and arrived at Narragansett Oil Works, Saturday. She will return to the coast of Maine immediately. Steamer Edwin Dayton, James B. Church, captain, caught between five and six hundred barrels of menhaden within a week.

COTTAGE ITEMS.—The hot wave has brought the Taunton people to their cottages near the depot. Mr. E. S. Strange, Mr. Wilber, Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Macomber are all occupying their cottages. Mrs. S. Robertson has rented Mr. Gullan's for the season.

Mr. Byron Boyd sold a box of berries in town, Saturday, that required only seventeen to make the full quart.

NEW ENGLAND ITEMS.

RHODE ISLAND.

Rev. J. H. Converse of Trinity Church, Bristol, has resigned, to take effect the middle of August, and will remove to New Hamburg, N. Y., where he will establish a school.

Mrs. Henry Hastings, wife of one of our leading shipowners, died at her residence in West Medford Wednesday. She was the daughter of the late Henry Marchant, of Providence, R. I., and the great-granddaughter of Henry Marchant of Newport, R. I., who was United States judge for the district of Rhode Island, and a member of the Continental Congress. She was fifty-nine years old. Her funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, after which her body was interred at Mt. Auburn.

The Aldrich family, whose progenitors emigrated from England in the latter part of the seventeenth century, are to hold a reunion in Saratoga this summer. Among those expected to be present are Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island; Congressman Aldrich of Illinois; Judge Aldrich of the Massachusetts Supreme Court; Judge Aldrich of the Supreme Court of California, and Judge Aldrich of Georgia. Thomas Bailey Aldrich expects to be in Russia at the time.

CONNECTICUT.

One of the oddest effects of the drouth is reported from Stamford. A church organ there is blown by water-power. The other day at a wedding the supply gave out in the middle of the wedding march and the music squeaked itself away into silence while the bridal procession was moving up the aisle.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The survivors near Portsmouth of the United States steamship Kearsarge, who were on board that vessel at the time of its memorable contest with the pirate Alabama, held their first reunion Thursday at the Kearsarge House. Invitations were sent to the seventeen heroes known to reside hereabouts, and about a dozen responded.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The Bennett-Mackey telegraph men are meeting with an obstruction in Hamilton in placing their telegraph poles. The selectmen granted them the necessary permission to run their wires through the town to the Newburyport turnpike, along which road they will run into Boston. The townspeople, however, have proved rebellious, and the farmers have turned out in large numbers and worked so zealously to fill up the holes dug to receive the poles as to completely block the linemen in their work. The people claim that the new line is greatly injuring the shade trees. For the past two days the telegraph people have done nothing, and they are holding a temporary parley. The matter will without doubt be quickly adjusted.

Moy Ching is the first Chinaman to die at Worcester during the six or eight years that city has had a colony devoted to the laundry interest. He was a member of Grace Methodist Church, and was one of a Sunday-school class of eighteen Celestials. The class attended the funeral, conducted by Rev. Dr. Ela.

Mrs. Lucretia Garfield, widow of the President, visited Northampton, Mass., last week with her daughter Mollie, looking over Smith College with a view to having her daughter educated there.

A special committee of the Worcester city council, appointed to consider the celebration of the city's bi-centennial next October, has voted to recommend an appropriation of $5000 for the purpose.

MAINE.

Ex-Governor Anson P. Morrill of Maine has just entered upon his eighty-second year.

Mr. Pearl Martin of Liberty, Me., father of Mayor Martin, has been visiting his honor this week.

General C. A. Whittier of Boston, who went abroad several months ago for his health's sake, is seriously ill in Paris.

Dr. William Grosvenor of Providence, R. I., proposes to give Brown University of that city $20,000 for an observatory.

Samuel Folsom, a pensioner of the war of 1812, who has just died at Lowell, Me., aged 110, was a hard drinker, inveterate smoker and one of the worst tempered and most disagreeable of men. He had his coffin made ten years ago, and made the carpenter strike off $2 from the bill because the coffin was a trifle too tight when "he tried it on."

William Lovie Tilley, formerly Probate Clerk of Newport, now a resident of Middletown, offers his services to the people as a Notary Public, to draw up instruments in writing such as wills, deeds, leases, mortgages, or would do copying of any description, all petitions to be presented to the Probate Court, or making of accounts done with dispatch and in a correct manner.

THE CITY OF NEWPORT.

Notice in Relation to Fireworks.

CITY MARSHAL'S OFFICE, NEWPORT, June 23, 1884.

PUBLIC ATTENTION is called to the fact that it is contrary to law, [Chapter 92 Public Statutes] to enkindle, use, or suffer to be kindled or used by any persons whomsoever, any rocket, CRACKER, squib or other fireworks of a combustible nature ordinarily used for exhibition or amusements, unless a special license be first obtained from the Board of Aldermen, and for the purpose of exhibition on a suitable occasion, under a penalty of TEN DOLLARS for each offence.

In order to guard against the danger of fires which may arise from the use of crackers or other fireworks on the Fourth of July, and the Board of Aldermen having granted no licenses for the use or enkindling of fireworks, the police force of this city have been instructed to rigidly enforce the provisions of the law relating to fireworks and will promptly arrest any person found violating the same.

WM. C. CONGDON, City Marshal.

NOTICE.

COLLECTION OF SWILL AND HOUSE OFFAL.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Board of Health has contracted for the collection and removal of Swill and House Offal for the present Municipal year, and granted licenses for the purpose, to the contractors, exclusively, and to no other persons. Householders are requested to place all such swill and house offal as they desire to be taken away, in suitable places on their premises as convenient of access as possible, and if neglected by the contractors after sufficient notice, to make complaint at the Police Station.

The contractor for the First and Fourth Wards of the city is James D. Horgan, license Nos. 1 and 4.

For the Second Ward, John MacMahon license No. 2.

For the Third and Fifth Wards Peter Murphy license Nos. 3 and 5.

The license numbers, and the words "City Swill Cart," are painted on the carts.

From the First of June to the 31st of October, the collections are to be made four times in each and every week.

No other persons have authority to remove swill or house offal through the public streets, and the citizens are requested to aid the contractors in the prompt and frequent removal of refuse matter, thereby promoting the cleanliness and health of the city.

ROBT. S. FRANKLIN, Mayor.

RE-UNION

—OF THE—

Sons and Daughters

OF NEWPORT.

The General Committee of arrangements desire to inform their fellow citizens that the present indications are that the reunion of the sons and daughters of this city, on Friday next, will be a magnificent success in every particular. The committee feel, however, that the citizens generally can do much toward such a desirable end, by decorating in an appropriate manner, their respective residences, thus adding to the attractiveness of the various thoroughfares. The committee hope that this suggestion will be very generally adopted.

☞ The citizens of Newport are appealed to for generous contributions of flowers and plants for decorating the tables in the tent. They may be left at the office of Chief Marshall Swinburne on Thames street.

By order of the committee,
JOHN WATERS, Chairman.
